PACT SOUGHT TO END SOFT COAL STRIKE

Secretary of Labor Resumes Efforts to Have 163,000 Miners Return to Pits

LEWIS IS HOLDING OUT

Washington, Oct. 8.—(AP)—John L. Lewis was absent today when conferences were resumed between bituminous coal operators and United Mine Workers in a government-sponsored effort to end a strike of 163,000 soft coal miners.

An associate said Lewis had a prior engagement which kept him from attending the morning session, but the mine workers' president was expected to join the conferences later today.

Midway in the morning session, the producers asked for a private huddle with Secretary of Labor Schweinfach, who called the meetings. The reason for their request was not announced.

At issue is recognition for Lewis' foremen's union.

Lewis wants to talk with the operators about recognizing the union. But the operators say they won't talk until the strikers go back to work.

Schweinfach called in both sides Saturday for a fill-in on the strike background.

He called them back today, hopeful he would be able to convince them that coal production is so essential that both Lewis and the operators will have to give ground.

The mine owners asked the union chief Saturday to halt the spreading work stoppages, but Lewis refused, saying the walkouts were begun locally by units of his United Clerical, Technical and Supervisory Employees and that the United Mine Workers Union was not responsible.

The UMW chief added that the coal strike did not involve wages or a shorter work week—the issues in most other strikes harassing the government in the past few weeks. He said the foremen with them, and struck when they refused.

After the Saturday meeting recessed Schweinfach indicated to reporters he thought the wage strikers might be lessened by a clear-cut government pattern—and set out to fix one.

He said he would seek the aid of the War Labor Board, which now is part of this department, in pushing through a test case involving a demand for a 30 per cent wage increase and an employer's refusal to pay a higher price to offset such a raise.

It is estimated by most unions that the loss in take home pay with the change from a 48-hour work week to a 40-hour week amounts to around 30 per cent.

The government's policy adopted immediately after Japanese surrender permits wage increases in any amount if they are not to be used as the basis for high prices. Approval of the OPA and Office of Economic Stabilization is required, however, where any increase in price ceilings is sought.

REFINERIES IN AREA NOT ON SEIZURE LIST

Spokesman for Striking Oil Workers Says Back-to-Work Order Issued by the President Not Effective in the Valley

MORE MAY BE CLOSED

Oil City, Oct. 8.—(AP)—A spokesman for striking oil workers in Venango county said today a back-to-work order issued by the president of the International Oil Workers Union was directed at navy-seized operations in other parts of the country, and does not affect between 800 and 900 workers striking here.

The navy, at Washington, said that the northwest Pennsylvania plants were not on its present seizure list.

Three refineries were shut down by strike of CIO-oil workers, and three more closed after AFL-employees refused to cross picket lines.

Small, independent dealers began to feel the pinch of a gasoline shortage, but some large companies were trucking gasoline into this oil-producing region.

The Petroleum Dealers Association predicted supplies would become "tight" during the present week.

Local buses had a supply to operate for three days, the Citizens Transit Company announced, but added it would make no prediction past that time.

W. R. Wonsettler, international union representative, said picketing today was confined to already-closed refineries, but that there were "some indications" plants away from here might be closed by strikes.

There was no indication, he said, that workers in refineries at Butler and Titusville might strike.

A spokesman for the Pennzoil Co. had expressed the belief earlier that the northwestern Pennsylvania refinery workers would hold out until the international union ended the strike. He said the company had started wage conferences with its employees after V-J day, but that it believed now a separate settlement was unlikely.

Later, the plants of the Continental Refining Co. near Oil City, the Wolf's Head Oil Refining Co. at Reno, and the Franklin Creek Refining Co. at Franklin shut down when members of an AFL union refused to cross picket lines established by the CIO.

New Cabinet for Japan Announced

League of Angry G. I. Wives Plans Action

London, Oct. 8.—(P)—Thousands of war brides, left behind in the British Isles when their G. I. husbands were shipped home, are planning a demonstration aimed at stirring shipping authorities to action in getting them to the United States.

A parade of protest—planned by the brides for Thursday—was called off today by police. So, the girls are now looking for a large hall, since 10,000 women are expected to attend. They will represent the wives of 54,000 Americans, 34,000 Canadians and enough others from British dominions to bring the total to about 100,000.

At Edinburgh more than 100 banded into a "League of Angry Wives."

YAMASHITA ENTERS PLEA OF NOT GUILTY

Blatant Japanese General Who Swagged to Victory in Malaya and Then Hid in Hills

FIRST ON A LONG LIST

Manila, Oct. 8.—(AP)—Big blatant Lt. Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita, who swagged to victory for Japan in Malaya then hid in the hills when the Americans came back for the Philippines, pleaded innocent to war criminal charges today, and his trial was set for Oct. 29.

The six-foot, paunchy Yamashita was the first of a long list of Japanese war-criminal suspects to be hauled into court for arraignment.

Clicking his spurred boot heels together, he responded a brisk "not guilty" to charges that he "permitted brutal atrocities against Americans and Filipinos while he commanded Japanese forces in the Philippines."

A United States military commission of five generals heard his plea, immediately fixed the date of the trial and directed that it be held in the war-scarred former residence of the Philippine high commissioner.

The 59-year-old "Tiger of Malaya" won one round and lost one at the start of his fight for life. Soft-voiced Chief Counsel Colonel Harry E. Clarke, of Altoona, Pa., obtained the appointment of Yamashita's former chief of staff and deputy chief of staff, Lt. Gen. Muto and Maj. Gen. Utsonomiya, to the defense council staff—a surprising move in view of the fact that both are being held in new Bilibid prison as war criminal suspects.

Clarke failed in a dramatic move to have the charges against the droopy-jowled general stricken altogether on the grounds they failed to state a single violation of the laws of war on the part of the accused. He won a small concession, however, when the commission's presiding officer, Maj. Gen. R. B. Reynolds of Dundee, Mich., ordered the prosecution to supply the defense with a bill of particulars—specifically outlining the crimes of which Yamashita is accused.

Reynolds overrode the contention of the chief prosecutor, Maj. Robert M. Kerr of Portland, Ore., that the proceedings were nothing like those of any ordinary court of law and that no detailed statement of charges was required.

Kerr also protested bitterly the appointment of the two Japanese generals to Yamashita's defense staff, but Reynolds allowed their appointment "in the interest of a fair trial." Kerr heatedly protested the appearance of "such men before" and argued that it might later have an effect on their own trials. Clarke had asked for their addition to the defense staff on the ground they were acquainted with many facts concerning Yamashita of which he knew nothing.

The formal charge against Yamashita said only that he "committed the crimes of which he was accused."

"At Manila and other places in the Philippines, while commander of the armed forces of Japan at war with the United States of America,"

PROCEDURE SETS A NEW PRECEDENT

Premier Shidehara Plans First Meeting Before Reporting Roster to Emperor

STRIKES ARE SPREADING

Tokyo, Oct. 8.—(P)—Aging, dapper Premier Kijiri Shidehara completed his "safe and sane" government for a hungry, restless Japan today, and planned the first meeting of his 15-man cabinet immediately, even before reporting its roster to the emperor—an unprecedented procedure.

Domest News Agency said he would outline bluntly the headaches ahead for the new government.

A brand new domestic trouble has added to Shidehara's burdens today—strikes. More than 6,000 Korean coal miners in the Yubari have struck, and the "unrest" seems to be spreading to an adjoining mine. Cause of the strike was not announced.

Acceptance by Adm. Soymu Tayoda of the navy portfolio completed the new cabinet—said Secretary Dairaburo, likely to meet with General MacArthur's approval. Tsugura also predicted that "another new cabinet will be formed by political party when a majority party comes out of the general elections" next January.

Baron Shidehara drew heavily upon parliamentary and anti-liberalists—to make up his new the new minister is 61.

Holding a cabinet post without the rank of minister is Wataru Harahashi, 41, parliamentarian who is president of the board of legislation.

Although the new government probably will be allowed to get bearings in office before it is hit by further Allied orders as sweeping as General MacArthur's "freedom" directive which upset the former cabinet, it already has two blunt deadlines to meet.

Political prisoners must be released by Oct. 10, and reports on removal of thought police and

Laval Locked In Dungeon As Trial Resumes

Paris, Oct. 8.—(P)—Pierre Laval was reported by court attendants to be locked in a dungeon beneath the Palais De Justice today as the fourth day of his treason trial started late without the swarthy defendant on hand.

The former premier's lawyers consulted Judge Paul Mongibeaux and told him Laval refused to "associate myself with a judicial crime." Thus, the former Vichy chief of government was maintaining a decision he reached Saturday not to attend the trial for his life.

Part of the hour and 33 minutes was caused by the absence of one of the resistance jurors, Jean Germain. He was replaced by one of the two remaining substitute jurors. Twelve of the jurors are from the resistance movement which opposed Germany and the Vichy government during the occupation. The main witness of the day.

Mounting Coal Shortage Felt In Steel Mills

Pittsburgh, Oct. 8.—(P)—The steel industry today faced the task of curtailing production because of a mounting coal shortage, and of opening negotiations with the CIO-United Steelworkers Union on their demand for a $2 wage boost.

The coal shortage, mushrooming from a bid of a supervisory workers union for recognition, have forced the closing of more than 600 mines in a six-state area, with some 163,400 miners remaining away from their jobs.

Meanwhile, John L. Lewis, United Mine Workers' chief, and soft coal operators were to renew talks in Washington today in an effort to reach a settlement of the dispute.

The conference opened Saturday with neither side yielding any point.

The initial parley on the wage boost demand for the steelworkers will be held here Wednesday, when union leaders said they sit down at a conference table with representatives of five subsidiaries of United States Steel Corp.

The steel industry declares such a raise would not be granted without hiking steel prices, while CIO President Philip Murray has contended the increase is necessary to compensate for a cut in "take home" pay due to reduced hours.

In West Virginia 239 miners are down and 64,560 men idle, with a complete shutdown threatened unless a quick settlement is reached.

Garland Man Injured Badly During Fight

One man is being detained in Warren county jail and another in serious condition in Warren General Hospital as the result of an altercation which is said by police officials to have taken place early Sunday morning on the John Wojtowicz farm at Garland.

William Parker, caretaker of the farm, was admitted to the hospital Sunday for treatment of a severe laceration on the side of his head, said to have been inflicted by a tire pump wielded by Bernard Robbins, who farmed the property.

Robbins is being held in jail by the sheriff's office and Pennsylvania State Police, pending their investigation and the outcome of Parker's injuries.

The argument is believed to have arisen over the fact that Robbins, a farmer when his owner began a 12 to 20 months sentence in Allegheny Workhouse on a burglary charge, brought to the farm his wife and small daughter, and he and Parker quarreled over their presence and other matters. Parker ordered Robbins to leave but Robbins was upheld by Ned Wojtowicz, of Spatsburg, brother of the owner, who, in turn, told the Parker family to get out.

Retiring on Saturday night, the Robbins family was aroused about one o'clock by the Parkers and their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. William Stilson, who repeated the vacate orders. Robbins went out by way of a window, secured a truck and returned for his wife and daughter. Police have not learned just what happened upon his return but indicated that Parker and Stilson continued to threaten him and he struck the former over the head with a pump.

14 Rescued After Crash Of Superforts

San Francisco, Oct. 8.—(P)—Fourteen of the 20 airmen who parachuted from their B-29, "Miss Alpa," into the ocean 500 miles off San Francisco Saturday morning are safe at Letterman hospital here today. The 14 included Capt. Philip Riehlman, Coatesville, Pa.

The fifteen survivor, Capt. James M. Moore of Granite Falls, N. C., commanding officer of the plane, is expected to arrive here this morning. Three of the fliers were drowned in the heavy seas and two are missing.

Coast guard planes are continuing the search for the missing men, but navy rescue crews fear they also drowned.

Their big Superfort was one of 10 in the 49th Bomb Group returning to this country from Saipan in the Marianas. Two of the four engines developed trouble in the flight from Hawaii and a third caught fire shortly before the pilot directed his craft toward the U. S. S. Amethyst, a coast guard patrol vessel.

Second Lt. Norman W. Horowitz of Jamaica, N. Y., the Superfort's navigator, said many of the men had difficulty inflating their life rafts and holding their heads above the crashing seas despite the buoyancy of the Superfort's floats.

Husky Virgil Trucks Opposes Passeau in Vital Game Today

Wrigley Field, Chicago, Oct. 8.—(P)—The Detroit Tigers pushed a run across on one hit and three walks in the second inning of the sixth game of the world series today to take a 1-0 lead over the Chicago Cubs before a crowd of some 44,000 fans in cold, cloudy weather.

After completing 8 1/2 innings of hitless ball against the Bengals, beginning with two out in the second inning last Friday, Claude Passeau walked Roy Cullenbine with one out in the second today to start the Tiger rally.

Immediately afterward, Rudy York, who got the only hit off Passeau Friday, pounded the first pitch on a line into right center for two bases to advance Cullenbine to third.

Jim Outlaw was given an intentional walk to load the bases. At this point, Passeau's control left him and Paul Richards waited out the full count and drew a pass, forcing in the run.

The Tigers, needing but one victory to win the 1945 World Series, sent their husky young right-hander, Virgil Trucks, to the hill against the Chicago Cubs in the sixth game here today.

Opposing Trucks, who trimmed the Cubs 4-1 in the second game of the series, was Claude Passeau, 36-year-old Chicago right-hander who shutout Detroit with a single hit in the third contest.

Roy Hughes, regular Cubs shortstop, returned to the line-up after having been out of yesterday's game with a bruised ankle, hit in batting practice. The day was chilly, with the temperature hovering in the high 40s, and the sun was peeping out only at intervals when the game began.

The starting lineups:

Rehearing Denied In A. P. Decision

Washington, Oct. 8.—(P)—The supreme court refused today to grant a rehearing on its decision that the Associated Press must amend its by-laws affecting admission of members.

The high tribunal in a 5 to 3 decision last June affirmed a lower court finding that the by-laws restraining trade and thus violate the Sherman anti-trust act. It directed amendment of the by-laws so as to prevent AP members from considering competitive aspects of an application for membership.

The AP, in asking a rehearing, contended among other things that to require opening of its membership was not an appropriate way to achieve objectives of the Sherman act.

The Chicago Tribune and its publisher, Robert R. McCormick, among the co-defendants with the AP in the justice Department's civil suit, also asked a rehearing.

The court also denied the Tribune's petition.

More Violence In Hollywood Strike

Hollywood, Oct. 8.—(P)—At least 12 strikers and two policemen were injured early today in brief but wild fighting at the entrance to Warner Brothers studio when officers charged a mass group of approximately 200 pickets to clear a passageway for studio workers.

Approximately 150 police and sheriff's deputies and the pickets fought for about 15 minutes as the officers, using night-sticks, cleared a way through the movie strikers and formed a double line through which the workers passed into the studio.

Witnesses said some of the pickets used canes and clubs in the battle.

Two ambulances took the injured pickets to hospitals.

It was the same entrance gates that fighting broke out last Friday and some 25 or more men and women were injured.

Court injunctions were issued Saturday ordering the studio and workers to restrain from violence.

Hess Returned To Reich For Trial

London, Oct. 8.—(P)—The British air ministry announced today that Rudolf Hess had left England in an RAF plane this morning for Frankfurt on the first leg of a journey to Nuremberg, where he will stand trial as a Nazi war criminal.

The erstwhile number two Nazi, who parachuted down on the Scottish moors in May, 1941, was driven from his place of detention to the airfield in a British army car with the blinds drawn.

Unshaven and impassive, Hess appeared much thinner than his most recent photographs. He was wearing a gray civilian suit and gray slouch hat.

Hess was accompanied by one army guard, a medical officer and attendant, and an official of the Allied air Crimes Commission.

Formalities at the airfield were quickly completed and only a few RAF personnel saw the plane leave at 8:50 a. m.

Hess' whereabouts had been a closely guarded secret throughout the war. During the past six months, at least, he had been living under guard near the little Welsh village of Abergavenny.

Kramer Puts Blame Upon Higher Ups

Lueneburg, Germany, Oct. 8.—(AP)—Josef Kramer swore on the Bible today that he was innocent of war crimes and that atrocities committed at the Oswiecim and Belzen concentration camps he committed were on orders from higher placed Nazis.

Kramer, described as the "beast of Belzen," leaped from the prisoners' cage like a football player from a bench and trotted to the witness stand where he testified in a high pitched nasal voice.

He said he was a loyal Nazi and a member of the SS and as such only carried out obediently the orders of the Hitler hierarchy.

While the other 44 SS guards and camp attendants jointly on trial with Kramer before a British military court, listened intently, he told of a riot in a concentration camp just a year and a day ago.

"There was a revolt. Persons tried to escape and there was firing near crematoriums one and three. I was in the garden of my home about four kilometers away. My driver came and asked if I knew crematorium three was in flames. When I arrived, it was burned out already. All the prisoners who took part in the mutiny were shot when I got there."

Eyes to the floor, Kramer insisted he did not know who ordered the prisoners shot.

He described the Polish camp at Oswiecim as "a camp which I did not wish to enter."

Chandler Rumor Denied by Owners

Chicago, Oct. 8.—(P)—Big league baseball club-owners, after a hurried meeting today announced "there is no basis" for reports that they are so dissatisfied with Commissioner Happy Chandler's administration they are considering buying up his contract.

Bringing into the open frequent rumors of the past several weeks of growing dissension between club owners and the commissioner, the club representatives got together in what they described as an "informal" meeting to hurriedly talk the thing over.

"There is no basis of fact to the story," they announced afterwards, referring to one published item last night that there is a move afoot to pick up the seven-year, $50,000-a-year contract given to Chandler when he was named czar of baseball last spring.

Chandler, reached for comment this morning by newspapermen reported he knew nothing about the reported move, but asserted "I have a seven year contract locked in my safe in Kentucky."

Two Pilots Injured In Jamestown Crash

Jamestown, N. Y., Oct. 8.—(P)—Two pilots, injured when their planes collided in mid-air and crashed in a swamp, were reported in good condition at General Hospital today.

The two, Sven Matson, 40, and Samuel Dimas, 23, both of Jamestown, were piloting Piper Cubs in an air show race at Municipal airport yesterday when the accident occurred. Police said the planes were badly damaged.

Old Glory Planted on Mount Fujiyama

Tokyo, Oct. 8.—(P)—Old glory flies today from Fujiyama—planted there Sept. 21 by a valiant band of ten officers and enlisted men of the 27th Infantry Division after a tortuous climb in snow, wind, hail, fog and rain.

The rare atmosphere at the top of Japan's 12,385-foot sacred mountain played tricks on the vision, the climbers said. Stones and shoes appeared green-blue. Eyeballs burned. Heavy fog cut their vision to arm's length.

Fourteen set out to make the climb. Two aggravated old leg injuries and were forced to turn back. Two others turned back to help the injured down the mountainside.

Two days later a medical unit had blazed a trail for the flag party, and left the division's insignia tacked to the 12,000-foot marker.

Committee to Hear Report About Parley

Washington, Oct. 8.—(P)—Secretary of State Byrnes goes to Capitol Hill today to explain American foreign policy amid indications of strong backing for his stand at the recent London conference.

Chairman Connally (D-Tex.) arranged to have Byrnes give the foreign relations committee a peek into the background of the conference which broke up in an argument with the Russians over who shall share in writing the peace.

Byrnes radio explanation last week seemed to assure him of widespread approval in legislative circles.

Erie County Has A Freak Accident

Erie, Oct. 8.—(P)—A freak accident occurred near here yesterday in which the body of John R. Doolittle, 33, steel company superintendent, was found a mile and a half from where his automobile crashed into a parked car.

At first it was believed the man had wandered off in a dazed condition from the scene of the accident and had been struck by another car.

Later investigation by Coroner W. W. Wood and state police disclosed Doolittle had been thrown out of his car by the impact and that as he lay on the road another machine ran over him. The mechanism underneath this car is believed to have caught the man's clothing, dragging him along the highway to the point where his body was found.

Two other persons in Doolittle's machine were injured, and the parked car was knocked into a house, causing some damage.

Second Tragedy Occurs In West Coast Love Triangle

San Francisco, Oct. 8.—(P)—Dr. John H. Mansfeldt has joined in death the nurse his wife has been charged with murdering in a tragic climax to a supposed love triangle.

The body of the 48-year-old prominent San Francisco physician was found on Sunday morning slumped in the front seat of his car, parked at the top of a cliff in a remote ocean front picnic ground 10 miles south of this city.

Deputy Coroner Ida M. Lasswell said he had been dead for three days. Evidence showed he had taken his own life with a powerful poison within a few hours of the time his wife, Annie Irene, 45, had been charged with the murder of Mrs. Vada Martin, the woman she believed was the rival for her husband's affections.

Mansfeldt collapsed in the city jail when she was told of her husband's death.

Four Fatalities In THE PITTSBURGH AREA

Pittsburgh, Oct. 8.—(P)—Four persons were killed in accidents here over the weekend.

The dead were: Gloria Ann Leyton, 14, William D. Ellick, 20, John Benazet, 61, and John H. Brown, 50, all of Pittsburgh.

Miss Leyton and Ellick were killed when their automobile driven by Ellick, collided with a street car. Four of the other five occupants of the car were injured. Benazet was struck by an automobile while crossing a street. Brown was struck by a car just before midnight Saturday.

Romance Between Officer And WAVE Ends in Tragedy

New York, Oct. 8.—(P)—A navy lieutenant was found dead and a WAVE lieutenant was found unconscious early this morning in a room at Hotel Governor Clinton.

Police identified them as Lieut. John Gerald Moore, 37, of 36th street, Washington, D. C., was found dead, and Lt. (j. g.) Pauline Elizabeth Rupp, 24, of San Francisco.

Police said that Lt. Rupp telephoned a doctor acquaintance at Bellevue Hospital shortly after 2 a. m. (EST) and asked him to "come right over." Police said the doctor found the bodies of the two lieutenants, fully clothed, on the floor.

Lt. Moore was pronounced dead by a physician at the hotel, but the cause of death was not revealed. Lt. Rupp was removed to

More States Are Said To Be Adopting Supervised Study

(Special Correspondence)
Scranton, Sept. 8—Plans for the use of correspondence courses through the public schools in vocational training for returned veterans are being adopted in many parts of the country, George W. Wilson, vice president of International Correspondence Schools, said today. Such a plan was first adopted by certain school districts in New Jersey during the spring and is now being developed also in Colorado, Michigan, New Hampshire, Vermont, Virginia and other states.

The rapid spread of the idea, Mr. Wilson said, indicate it provides a satisfactory solution to some of the more serious educational problems of the ex-service men. He pointed out that adoption of the plan in New Jersey was announced in May, that the passage of special legislation to facilitate similar arrangements in Michigan was announced in June, and that word has come from other States during the summer that steps are being taken to put the plan into effect when the public schools reopen in the fall for the first postwar year.

In New Jersey, where the program was first developed, Mr. Wilson stated, it has already been in operation during the summer in three schools and has been approved for 24 others, including two of the largest in the State.

Under the G. I. Bill of Rights, according to Mr. Wilson, training may be provided for veterans through correspondence courses by public schools approved by the State departments. In New Jersey those courses are conducted under the supervision of a member of the public school faculty, through whom the regular correspondence instruction material is channelled. This method makes it possible for one instructor to supervise a group of 25 or 30 students, all studying different courses which they began at different times. It also makes available to the students a wider variety of subjects than most schools are equipped to offer and permits the returned veteran to follow the course of his choice while carrying a full-time job.

As an example, Mr. Wilson cited the first group organized in New Jersey, in which the subjects studied range from accounting and advertising through engineering, refrigeration and plastics to tea room and cafeteria management—and all the students are employed.

Youngsville Gets 1st Victory, 24-7

(Special)

Youngsville, Oct. 8—A victory bound football team from Youngsville journeyed to Clarion on Saturday afternoon and downed the high school of that town to a 24 to 7 tune. Youngsville made two touchdowns in the second quarter, while Clarion made one, and in the third and fourth quarters Youngsville made one touchdown in each period. Youngsville failed to convert.

Two buses carried the players and rooters to Clarion, one with the players and equipment and the other with the 35 rooters.

The line up is as follows: S. Smith, lg; J. Donaldson, lt; J. Waite, lg; Bob Freeboro, c; A. Woodard, rg; C. Murphy, rt; J. Richards, re; D. Spencer, qb; C. Luvison, lb; D. Randinelli, rh; C. Jones, fb.

Page Hollow Sawmill Loss In Fierce Fire

Sunday afternoon about 3 o'clock the saw mill in Page Hollow, near Youngsville was discovered to be in flames. Smoke was ascending high in the air and Ellis Billsboro, out for a pleasure ride discovered the blaze. He telephoned C. C. Johnson who with his son owns and operates the mill and they at once went to the scene.

Many were attracted by the smoke and volunteers worked hard and managed to save several large piles of sawed lumber. The mill was a total loss. The mill had been in operation on Saturday and when shut down for the weekend all fires were drawn and indications were that everything was in good shape.

Mr. Johnson and son are highly appreciative of the work of the men who assisted them as the group worked until after nightfall to check the fire that threatened the lumber in the stacks.

The mill was well equipped and the loss is quite a heavy one to the owners.

Sales Report For Schools

Stamps and bonds sales in Warren borough schools stood just below the thousand dollar mark for the week of October 1, savings accounts of $282.54 pushing the total up to $1,083.79. Sales at the high school, where there is no savings plan, amounted to $502.50.

Other buildings, their savings, sales and totals were as follows: Beatty, $51.85-$55.95 — $107.78; East, $38.65-$18.30—$56.95; Home, $9.61-$25.50—$35.11; Johnson, $44.53-$50.70—$95.23; Lacy, $59.78-$56.30—$116.08; McClintock, $24.93-$10.35—$35.28; Seneca, $5.89-$21.65—$27.54; South, $47.32-$60.00—$107.32; totals, $282.54 in savings; $801.25 in sales; $1,083.79 for both.

A wakeless torpedo, silent and untraceable, is now revealed as one of the important U. S. secret weapons of the war. The first electric-propelled weapon of its type, it was standard equipment on U. S. submarines more than a year before V-J Day. One of the huge missiles is shown above at the Sharon, Pa., plant of Westinghouse Electric, which manufactured them. The Sharon plant built 10,000 of the torpedoes, which accounted for the sinking of 372 Jap ships.

Damaged Battleship Repaired in Floating Dock

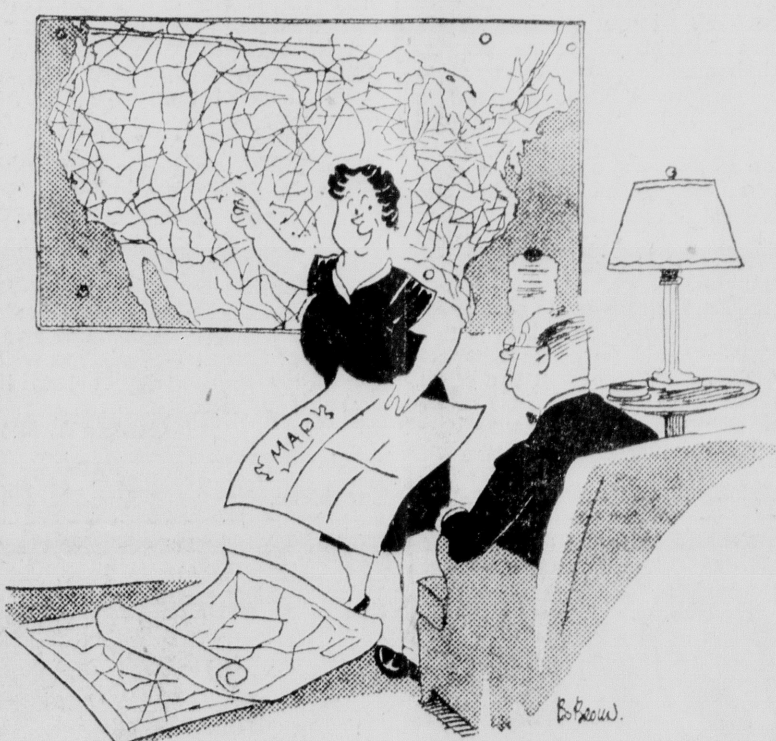

Hit by a Jap Kamikaze bomber, the U. S. S. Mississippi became the first battleship to be placed in the floating drydock above for repairs, as shown in official Navy photo made last June at Guian anchorage, Samar Island, in the Philippines. It was necessary to pump out 700,000 gallons of fuel oil to lighten the Mississippi sufficiently to enter the dock.

The Bomb That May Have Started War

The bomb explosion that may have meant the difference between war and peace for the United States on Dec. 7, 1941, is shown in the photo above. It pictures what is believed to have been the first bomb dropped by the Japs on Pearl Harbor. A Jap plane, circled, can be seen pulling out of a dive above American warships. Photo was found torn to pieces by Martin J. Shemanski of Plymouth, Pa., photographer's mate, second class, at Yokosuka Naval Base near Tokyo. He copied picture with Japanese camera on Jap photographic plates, turned original over to Naval Intelligence.

In a recent letter received by Mr. and Mrs. Will Range, from their son Pfc. Richard M. Range, dated Sept. 11 from Japan, he writes that he is about forty-three miles from Tokyo, and fourteen miles from Yokohama. He boarded a C-54 Transport plane at Okinawa, Sept. 7 and arrived in Japan, the same day. Quoting from his letter, he says the Japs are more friendly than he thought they would be, since they had to accept unconditional surrender—many of them can speak American, fairly well. The civilian population seem glad to have the American Doughboys take over. He finds it very interesting to watch their ways, and type of living. Among his personal messages to the home folks, he wished his father a happy birthday, which was of recent date. THE AFTERMATH OF LONDON

The gloomy fiasco of the Council of Foreign Ministers in London has presented two facts which are clearly visible even at a great distance and through a veil of secrecy; there must be a new attempt to reach agreement on peace terms; and before that attempt can even approach success, the differences that split the London meeting must be resolved.

Whether the next attempt is another foreign ministers' conference, a Truman-Stalin-Attlee meeting, or a full-dress conference of the United Nations depends on the Big Three. But the form is less important than the need for a basic Big Three agreement.

Much has been made of the fact that Secretary Byrnes came to the recent unsuccessful meeting as an unprepared "amateur." But it is doubtful that an American delegation armed with the most meticulously prepared protocol would have fared much better. For Mr. Molotov presented a hard-headed program based on a political and diplomatic philosophy that is diametrically opposed to most Anglo-American beliefs.

It is clear that the Soviet Union does not believe in equal sovereignty; the Big Three won the World War and so must dictate the world peace, without allowing the small nations a voice in their own destiny.

The Russian government is responsible to no one but itself. It is not elected, and it does not countenance serious domestic criticism of its policies. This it obviously believes to be a good method, hence its insistence on a wall of secrecy around the fateful Big Three discussions.

The Russian interpretation of "democracy" is quite different from the Anglo-American conception. The first test of the new "democratic" governments of European countries within the Russian orbit has been their acceptability to Russia, not to their own people. Major opposition there has been lumped together as "fascist" and bloodlessly purged. Talk of "free elections" has remained talk.

All this does not necessarily mean that Russia is traveling a cynical road toward world domination. Quite possibly the Russian government, in its own eyes, is acting fairly, justly and democratically. The trouble is simply that Russian's whole course of action is repugnant to the western democracies. And those democracies, whatever their faults, have had a longer, more peaceful and more successful experience in government of, by and for the people.

And so there must inevitably be a showdown. Perhaps the United States needs better preparation before the next peace meeting. But certainly this government will need to exercise its strength and world prestige more vigorously.

We have three strong weapons in dollars, a great productive capacity and an atomic bomb. Russia wants some of the first, needs the help of the second and respects the third. Backed by these weapons, American statesmen should be able to effect the compromise necessary to turn world events from their present dangerous course and toward recovery and peace.

HIGHWAY FUNDS

For many years past it has been the policy of the Pennsylvania State Grange to insist that the revenue collected through a tax upon gasoline be used for highway purposes only, reminds the "Pennsylvania Grange News".

From time to time, as the financial going got a little tough, the gasoline tax fund has been raided and as a result thousands of miles of roads were never built because the money (more than $130,000,000) which the motorist and farmer had paid had been used for other purposes.

The General Assembly in 1943 and again in 1945 approved a constitutional amendment which would prohibit the use of this revenue for anything other than highway purposes. This amendment will be placed before the voters of the state at the next election, November 6th. It would seem probable that few citizens would vote against such an amendment but there is one fact about constitutional amendments that is often forgotten. That is, an amendment has to be approved by a majority of all the people who cast a ballot at the election. It is a well known fact that voters, generally, do not bother to vote on amendments. And failure to vote is the same as voting against the amendment.

A campaign is under way at the present time by the Pennsylvania Good Roads Association to insure that all voters are familiar with this amendment before election day.

Stamp News

A GROUP of smiling sailors are depicted on the Navy commemorative stamp to be issued at Annapolis, Md., Oct. 27 as the third in the series of U. S. stamps honoring the armed services. At least 11 faces are distinguishable on the stamp.

Collectors desiring first day cancellations may send a maximum of 10 addressed envelopes, together with remittance for the stamps to be affixed, to the Postmaster, Annapolis, Md.

Meanwhile the Post Office Department has announced that a Coast Guard issue of the service series will be placed on sale Nov. 10, and that a Texas centennial issue is scheduled for August.

NYASALAND's first set of pictorial stamps just released is in keeping with the customary attractiveness of British colonial issues. The 14-value set presents seven distinctive designs in two colors, each with a portrait of King George VI.

Nyasaland Protectorate, a British colony in Southern Africa, is 37,374 square miles in area and had a population of 1,686,045 in 1940.

Values, colors and designs of the new series are: 1/2-pence brown and black and 9-p olive and black, native in canoe on Lake Nyasa; 1-p green and black, a soldier of the King's African Rifles; 1½-p gray and black and 6-p violet and black, a tea estate with the Manje Mountain in the background; 2-p vermilion and black, 1-shilling gray green and blue and 10-shilling green and red, map of Nyasaland and the colonial coat of arms; 3-p blue and black and 2-sh brown and green, fishing village on Lake Nyasa; 4-p magenta and black and 2-sh 6-p dark blue and green, tobacco field; 5-sh mauve and dark blue and 1-pound vermilion and black, colonial coat of arms.

RUSSIA'S V-E Day was May 9, the day after the United States and Great Britain issued their proclamations, a historical date that is given philatelic recognition by issuance of an overprint on the Soviet's 3-ruble "Order of Victory" medal stamp. The overprint reads: "Victory Day May 9, 1945."

Speaking of medals, the Soviet Union didn't forget the home front in handing out medals. J. and H. Stolow of New York report receipt of three stamps picturing medals awarded to Russian mothers. A 20-kopeck brown on light blue pictures a medal presented mothers who have borne 10 or more children, a 30-k brown on green depicts the Medal of Honor of the Mother and a 60-k red features a medal presented to the mother of a Soviet war hero.

The same firm reports that Russia also issued 30- and 60-k stamps Sept. 16 to commemorate the 200th anniversary of the birth of Field Marshal Michael I. Kutusoff (1758-1813). Kutusoff distinguished himself in the Turkish wars of 1770 and 1788-92. In 1812, as commander-in-chief of the Russian Army he was defeated by Napoleon at Borodino but he scored victories over French Field Marshals Ney and Davout at Smolensk.

STAMP news in brief: Spain is reported to be preparing a stamp issue honoring Father Benito Jeronimo Feijoo Montenegro (1676 - 1764), Benedictine monk and writer . . . John S. Sparks, Jr., stamp writer for the Fort Worth, Tex., Star-Telegram, wants the Post Office Department's philatelic agency to resume sales of all st. ps now that the war is over and suggests transfer of "some of the surplus federal employees to the philatelic agency" to handle the extra work . . . Liechtenstein has issued a 5-franc gray stamp featuring its coat of arms against a background of Castle Vaduz and mountains . . . Albert F. Kunze of the Pan American Union's philatelic section has edited and illustrated booklet giving the story behind each of Panama's 16 current postage and air-mail stamps.

SURINAM, or Dutch Guiana, the South American colony of The Netherlands, issued a six-value set of stamps this summer, each stamp surcharged to provide funds for the Dutch National Aid Fund. A 7½ plus 5-cent value pictures a sugar cane train and a profile of Queen Wilhelmina while the other values depict just the Queen's profile.

A COMMONPLACE BOOK

She is intelligent and not insensitive to the aesthetics of the written word. Unfortunately, as a member of the younger generation—strange how there seems always to be a Generation called "The Younger," whose personnel changes but whose characteristics do not—she has been nourished emotionally on the alarms and excursions of war. More delicate responses, if they ever existed at all, have been blunted by the crash of cities, the roar of rockets, the yellow telegrams from the War Department. Life is pretty rugged, says the philosophy of this Younger Generation; so—"Carpe diem!" I don't quarrel with that philosophy; but it does not make for appreciation of the more fragile lyricisms. So, I say, it was not without misgiving that I shoved a poem under her nose. Here is the poem:

You thought it was a falling leaf we heard;
I knew it was the summer's gypsy feet;
A sound so reticent it scarcely stirred
The ear so still a message to repeat—
"I go, and lo, I make my going sweet,"
What wonder you should miss so soft a word?
You thought it was a falling leaf we heard.
I knew it was the summer's gypsy feet.
With slender torches for her service meet
The goldenrod is coming; softer slurred
Midsummer noises take a note replete
With hint of change; who told the mocking bird?
I knew it was the summer's gypsy feet—
You thought it was a falling leaf we heard.

My misgivings were justified. Her comment, in the bright, all-alert accents considered indispensable in anyone who is really on the beam, was: "Very nice . . . I like it . . . Very nice!" I held my breath, thinking she was going to add: "It's sharp! . . . Really smooth!" But I was spared that, at least. Her comment proved she had not grasped at all the soft, subtle beauty of this famous poem by Karl Wilson Baker. She damned it with faint praise. Such a poem is never merely "nice." It is deeply, stirring lovely. This delicate rondel remains, and will remain, a permanent melody in the remembering ear of those who love poetry in its softest, most luminous moods. (Speaking of the present Younger Generation, I must note, in fairness, that I have recently discovered one memorable exception to its insensitiveness; so perhaps all is not lost.)

To get back to autumn poetry, one always remembers at this time of year Bliss Carman's "A Vagabond Song." It is certainly not so subtle in its beauty as the rondel; but it has motion, cadence, and a certain debonair, if superficial, romanticism:

There is something in the Autumn that is native to my blood—
Touch of manner, hint of mood;
And my heart is like a rime,
With the yellow and the purple and the crimson keeping time.

The scarlet of the maples can shake me like the cry
Of bugles going by.
And my lonely spirit thrills
To see the frosty asters like smoke upon the hills.

There is something in October sets the gypsy blood astir.
We must rise and follow her,
When from every hill of flame
She calls and calls each vagabond by name.

We are not quite so naive as we were in the days when Bliss Carman wrote "A Vagabond Song." It is not very romantic to be vagabonds when a roaring plane can whisk you around the world in a few days. Nor do we prate of our "lonely hearts" or our "gypsy blood," even though we may have them. This poem is fragrant with the emotions of another time; but still it is fragrant.

Many Victory Garden Crops Easily Stored for Winter

Easy Methods of Storing Vegetables.

As freezing weather approaches, vegetables which remain in good condition in the Victory garden may easily be stored safely for winter use. Kale, Brussels sprouts, parsnips and salsify will stand freezing, and are usually left in the garden, and harvested as needed, until just before the ground freezes deeply.

If parsnips and salsify are dug at this stage, washed and enough for one meal packed in a paper bag, the bags can be stored outdoors in any convenient place where they will remain dry and safe from animals. They can be taken into the kitchen and thawed out for use as needed.

Tomatoes should be harvested after the first hard frost. Many can be ripened if laid on a shelf in a warm basement; some prefer to hang them up, still attached to the vine. Carrots, beets, turnips, rutabagas, potatoes, apples and cabbages can be stored in an unheated garage or shed for several weeks, until the outside temperatures have fallen to several degrees below freezing. If the carrots, beets and turnips are placed in boxes packed in soil, which is kept moist, in the protection of the garage or shed they will keep well in any except extremely low temperatures. Sand is not good for this packing, as it does not retain moisture well. Potatoes should not be packed in this way.

A better method is a cold cellar, or basement room, in which the temperature can be kept down to as near 34 to 38 degrees as possible, and ventilation provided. In such a room, the vegetables should be stored on shelves, racks, slat bins or solid boxes, raised off the floor. A concrete floor should be sprinkled every few days, and an earth floor kept somewhat damp.

Where the quantity to be stored does not warrant a large pit, various adaptations of the idea may be used, as shown in the illustration.

Vegetables stored should be in good condition, not too old or too immature; and tender vegetables which have been exposed to frost should never be stored. Avoid vegetables with bruises or skin punctures, as decay will start from there, and never store vegetables which are wet. Even the hardest vegetables should not be stored if they have been frozen.

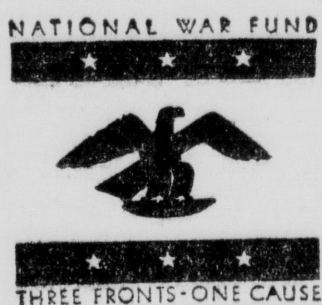

Do not close outdoor root cellars tightly until the temperature inside has dropped close to freezing, and do not cover vegetables in earth pits until the soil has cooled off thoroughly.

Your Money at Work at Home

Of the $88,700 total goal for the 1945 Warren County War Fund, $49,700 remains at home to be used in the work of the 8 local agencies—work both in Warren Borough, and in the County outside the Borough. No money collected outside the Borough in the County is used for work inside the Borough; all of it goes for exclusively County purposes.

Y. M. C. A.

The sounds of running feet and a dribbling basketball, spirited yells and laughter amidst splashing water, the click of a ping pong ball as it bounces from the game table; an atmosphere of warmth, friendliness and relaxation; a spirit of Americanism—that's the YMCA!

The Young Men's Christian Association has become a prevalent factor in training both mind and body of American youth. Leisure time, always a problem for many a boy, has found a synonym—the "Y"! Despite the fact that 200 members were in uniform, last year the Warren County "Y" membership increased by 100, bringing the total membership to 874, including 404 boys.

During the past year the Warren County "Y" has been a foster home to our men in uniform. The shower room was probably the most frequently occupied, but the swimming pool, game room, exercise rooms and reading rooms were rarely vacant. Many servicemen temporarily "out of funds" were given lodging without cost. The number serviced in one day has ranged from one to twenty-five, and the fact to be remembered is that these services do not end with the war.

For another year, at least, increasing numbers of men in uniform will look to the "Y" for a variety of services. Any discharged servicemen who wishes it will be granted a free, 3-month, full-privilege membership. Many men have already taken advantage of this opportunity. A woman's swimming membership for the same period of time is offered discharges of the women's branches of the armed forces.

Last year 695 men and boys were enrolled in 27 different gym classes, in addition to the City Basketball games, volleyball league, tumbling classes, a gym show and Leaders Corps classes. Gym attendance for the entire year was 10,596. Swimming participation totaled 11,250, including the tri-weekly Red Cross swimming classes, Thursday night mixed swim period and the pre-induction classes for high school boys, in which 107 students participated. Not only the regular "Y" groups but also the Boy and Girl Scouts, the Public Schools, the Y. W. C. A., churches and the State Police found much pleasure in the use of the pool.

Besides the Senior Hi-Y Club, two Junior Hi-Y clubs and the Gra-Y Club, 31 different organizations and groups used the "Y" building during the year for a total of 293 meetings, classes and events. The Y. M. C. A. has maintained a participating relationship, and in some instances a position of leadership, in such community enterprises as the Ministerial Association, the Council of Community Agencies, the Christian Youth Council, the Christian Church, the War Fund, and the Week-Day School of Religious Education.

The Community Adult Bible Class, sponsored by the "Y", held 16 Thursday night sessions, beginning February 1. One hundred and eighty-seven men and women attended. Three Lenten Bible-study, supper meetings for boys were conducted with an average attendance of 36. The membership of the Warren Foreman's Club, also organized by the "Y", grew to a record-breaking total of 110. Twenty industries and businesses were represented, with average attendance at the monthly fall and winter meetings being 90. Once a month the "Y" called a pre-induction "G. I.'s-to-be" took advantage of this opportunity to receive in-meeting for draft selectees, and 50 per cent of Warren County's valuable aid for their military service.

During the summer months, overnight hikes, soft ball games, educational trips, track meets, swimming and tennis were highlights of the season. Two 3-day camps at Jeffmore were conducted with 24 boys and leaders participating each time. A Church Softball League was organized by the "Y" which consisted of six different teams.

The Y. M. C. A. Dormitories, with beds for 22 men, have been filled almost continuously during the year, providing young men with a temporary home away from home. The "Y" Dorm is provided not just as a place to "rent rooms," but as a facility used to further the ideals of American manhood in sports, friendships, and clean living.

Yes, the "Y" is, in a very real sense, a community center. For the coming year every Y. M. C. A. in the country realizes its most important task will be to help discharged servicemen adjust themselves to civilian life, to assist the rebuilding of war-weary minds and bodies with exercise, entertainment and kindness, to show them that the American way of life for which they gave so much is not a myth, but very, very real.

The "Y" is doing, and will do, its share. We must do ours by contributing to the Warren County War Fund.

Men and Women In the Service

Pfc Graham Is Awarded Bronze Star

Mrs. H. R. Graham, 27 Plum street, has received from headquarters of the 45th Infantry Division the following copy of the citation which accompanied the Bronze Star Medal awarded her son, Pfc. Rex C. Graham, for meritorious service in combat in the European theatre: "Rex C. Graham, Infantry, Private First Class, Company D, 157th Infantry Regiment, for meritorious service in combat from October 1943 to 8 May 1945 in Italy, France and Germany. During this period Private Graham has consistently displayed determination and devotion to duty in his duties as messenger, ammunition bearer and mortar gunner. On one occasion, when enemy automatic weapons and tank fire prevented his driving an ammunition vehicle to his mortar position, Private Graham voluntarily hand-carried the vitally-needed ammunition across the fire swept area. His courage and initiative on this and other occasions have been of material assistance to his organization."

ARTHUR WHITNEY GOING TO KOREA

William M. Whitney, 6 Bauer street, has received a letter from his son, Arthur, reporting that he has arrived at Okinawa, and is awaiting transportation to Korea. Upon arriving in Korea, he will be with the 7th Infantry Division, a unit of an occupational army. Lt. Whitney served for nine months in the European theatre with a quartermaster supply company, then entered officer training school and received his commission in June. He left France in July, sailing through the Mediterranean, across the Atlantic, through the Panama Canal, and over to Pearl Harbor. After leaving Pearl Harbor, he made stops at Eniwetok, Saipan, Guam, the northwestern Carolines, and Okinawa.

ON USS PASIG

A delayed dispatch from the USS Pasig at Pearl Harbor states that "Robert G. Keller, fireman first class, husband of Dorothy L. Keller, Warren RD 3, was serving at war's end aboard this dwelling ship, whose crew is known throughout the western Pacific as 'the water boys'. Assigned to provide other fleet with fresh water, the Pasig has her busiest day at Okinawa. That day her output topped half a million gallons."

ROBERT A. LEE HAS HONORABLE DISCHARGE

S/Sgt. Robert A. Lee, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eric Lee, 119 Dartmouth street, was honorably discharged October 2 from the Army Air Forces, his last duty station being Lowry Field, Colo. He entered the service on July 9, 1941, and spent two years and six months overseas, serving as photographer with the 10th Air Force in the China-Burma-India theatre. He returned to the United States on December 8, 1944.

WILLIAM ANDERSON REMINDED OF HOME

Cpl. William A. Anderson, writing from Luzon in the Philippines, sends a copy of the Sept. 17th issue of the "Daily Pacifican", army newspaper, in which he found an article datelined Warren, Penna. "It's a small world," he writes. "It sure looked good to see the name of the old home town in newspaper print."

IN TOKYO BAY

Word comes from Tokyo Bay that Norman G. Yeagle, Corp. Clarendon RD 1, is serving on the USS Mount Olympus, communication headquarters ship, which was among the first U. S. Navy vessels to enter Tokyo Bay. The Mount Olympus, flagship of Vice Admiral T. S. Wilkinson, arrived at dawn of the day the Japs surrendered.

LLOYD LEROY IRWIN HONORABLY DISCHARGED

Lloyd Leroy Irwin, Sugar Grove RD 3, has been honorably discharged from naval service at the Bainbridge, Md., separation center.

Howard Lindell, seaman first class, is home from Milton, Fla., to spend a leave with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Lindell, Lander.

CAPTAIN WEBSTER HONORABLY DISCHARGED

Captain Hamilton Webster, husband of Louise Steber Webster, 214 West Fifth avenue, has received an honorable discharge from the army after 58 months of service in the Army Air Forces. Capt. Webster entered the service in November, 1940. While serving in the Air Force he piloted both fighter ships and bombers for four years, accumulating a total of 2600 hours of flying time, and earning a total of 58 points. Before entering the service, he was employed by the National Cash Register Company in Jacksonville, Fla. He was last stationed at Langley Field, Va. AAF Training Command radar observatory school. He will return to Dayton, O., soon to take up a position as executive secretary of the Dayton Veterans' Service Center. Mrs. Webster will remain here with her parents for a week or ten days and will join him in Dayton, where they will reside at 576 Daytona Parkway.

IVAN ZIMMERMAN RETURNING SOON

It has been learned that T/Sgt. Ivan E. Zimmerman, 114 Canton street, has cleared the Grenier Field, N. H., Air Forces separation center, and will shortly return home with an honorable discharge. Sgt. Zimmerman, son of Mrs. H. A. Zimmerman, has served a little more than three years with the AAF as a radar bombsight mechanic. Sixteen months of this time he was overseas in the European theatre. He wears the Bronze Star Medal, the Distinguished Unit Citation badge with three Oak Leaf Clusters, and the ETO ribbon with nine battle stars. He participated in the campaigns of southern France, Rome-Arno, Po Valley, Europe Air Offensive, Normandy, northern France, Germany, North Appennines and the Balkans. Upon returning to civilian life, Sgt. Zimmerman plans to do electronics work.

SERVES IN QM RAILROAD COMPANY

Pfc. Frank C. Germonto, with the 4300th Quartermaster Railroad Company, now at Camp Swift, Texas, is in town to spend a 15-day furlough with Mr. and Mrs. Frank Chimenti, 701 Pennsylvania avenue, east. He reports that while overseas he met one of the Corbran boys, also John Dahler. His outfit, under Capt. James S. Chapman, of Memphis, Tenn., was activated at Cherbourg in November, 1944, and during the battle of the Ruhr worked 24 hours a day receiving rations, breaking them down and distributing them to other units. Some days, he states, it distributed food for as many as eight different types of menus. Days when the units supplied food for 160,000 of our own men and 100,000 German prisoners of war were not unusual.

NORMAN H. SAMPSON HONORABLY DISCHARGED

Mr. and Mrs. Norman H. Sampson and their son Dennis, of Port Allegany, are here to spend a week with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Sampson, 11 Monroe street, following his honorable discharge from the army. Mr. Sampson, was a staff sergeant in the army, serving four years and participating in overseas duty for 15 months. He was with the 802nd Field Artillery Battalion, the 87th Armored Field Artillery Battalion and the 254th Infantry Regiment. He earned the Good Conduct Medal, American Defense Medal, the ETO ribbon with four battle stars, the Purple Heart, Presidential Unit Citation and the Bronze Star Medal.

ROBERT J. SMITH HONORABLY DISCHARGED

Robert J. Smith, machinist's mate second class, Kinzua, has been honorably discharged under the point system from Coast Guard Separation Center No. 9 in Detroit, Mich.

TERMINAL LEAVE

2nd Lt. George H. Phillips, son of Mrs. Olive Phillips, Schanz street, home on terminal leave from his instructors' duties at Ellington Field, has resumed his employment at the Munksgard Garage on Crescent street and expects his final discharge papers soon.

HAROLD SEYMOUR HONORABLY DISCHARGED

Harold Seymour, staff sergeant in the army and son of Mr. and Mrs. Alva Seymour, 127 Russell street, has been honorably discharged from service at Fort Og-

Freedom from what?

PEACE is five months old in Europe now. Freedom has been established.

But thousands still don't know freedom from hunger, and the way it pinches the eyes and eats at a man's spirit.

Numberless men, women and children haven't found freedom from disease. Each night sees hundreds die.

Thousands of people can't find freedom from cold. Soon winter will search them out in the cellars of their ruined homes, or in their unheated bedrooms, or in the shacks they put together.

But the greatest lack of freedom is from fear—from fear of the future. Legions of men and women fear the despair that fills their lives. The hopelessness that smothers their will to try.

These are the fears from which violence grows. The desperate fears that lead to anarchy. To uprisings. To chaos that can threaten the peace of the world. And it is vital to our future—and to our children's—that we dispel these fears.

You help bring freedom to these beaten peoples of Europe, and help them to rebuild for peace, when you give to the National War Fund—through your local community campaign.

Part of every dollar you give buys them freedom from hunger, by shipping seeds and food overseas. Freedom from disease, by sending medicines. Freedom from cold, by distributing clothes.

But the biggest thing your money buys for these peoples is freedom from despair. New hope to go on. Faith to believe again in mankind.

Your dollar goes even further. It sends U.S.O. entertainment to servicemen everywhere, and frees their families here at home from worry by providing foster parents for the children of war-disrupted homes.

When a neighbor from your local community war fund rings at your door, help him make freedom ring around the world. Give generously, won't you? Your dollars never bought so much.

Indiantown Soon to Cease Its Activities

The installation that was the first stopping place for Pennsylvanians on their way to the battlefields of World War II is closing. Orders from the Third Service Command headquarters of Baltimore on Friday called for the transfer of the reception center from Indiantown Gap to Fort George G. Meade, Md., where it will be consolidated with reception center activity of the 1322nd Service Command Unit.

The move is in line with recent developments setting the stage for the big job of the moment, separation. Expansion of the separation center at Indiantown Gap has been so rapid in recent weeks that buildings of the reception center have already been commandeered to house separation functions.

Date set for transfer of the separation center is October 15, just two days more than 56 months since its activation at nearby New Cumberland.

Also scheduled to leave the Indiantown Gap scene, further making way for rapidly-expanding separation activities, is the Special Training Unit, scheduled to depart for Fort Devens, Mass., by October 15.

Chapter 24
WHEN a person kills, that person kills again to protect himself. A truism in police annals, Gardner emphasized his words with a slow, deliberate motion of his fingers as he polished his spectacles. He was sitting in Cobo's office late that afternoon for what, to his surprise, Cobo had termed a "final interview."

Gardner noticed the tired, worried expression around the little chief's eyes. Cobo had worked day and night since Potter's body had been found. Gardner knew that he and Cobo meant to break the case.

"You work with me today—to-night?" Cobo's voice was somber.

Gardner nodded. "But of course. I agree with you we must gather up the loose ends and work fast. If the killer makes a break to get away, this time we'd be ditched. Any one else coming in for a final report this afternoon?"

"Ramon. He knows so much about Dolores—we need that information."

"I know."

Cobo rang for a stenographer who came in at once and sat beside him, a row of sharpened pencils neatly lined up on the table in front of her. Then when he had told Jesus no one was to interrupt them except Ramon, who was expected soon, he turned to Gardner and said in a low voice.

"Yesterday you said 'when you get killer's time-table you break case.' Please make it now."

Gardner shoved his glasses up on his forehead, leaned back in his chair, and stared at the ceiling as he said slowly:

"Time is a big factor in this case. The thing which we must know is the time events actually happened—not the time some one wants you to believe they happened. For instance we were told that the principals and chorus for the pirates' dance went out on the verandah to start their dance at 10 o'clock Saturday night. Yesterday, in this office, Miss Van Tyne admitted that was an error—that the dance really started at 10 minutes past 10."

"Ten more minutes—plenty time to strangle Dolores."

"Exactly. Well, to get back to your question—the time-table we must reconstruct, accurately, is this:

"What time did Miss Van Tyne and Ramon Delgo meet Dolores as she came from the runway when the Fashion Show was over? What time did Miss Van Tyne leave her room Saturday night and get back to the lobby? What time did Peabody leave the lobby for Miss Van Tyne's room? When was Potter killed? When did Mrs. Warner see Potter after he went to answer that telephone call?"

"You get the idea," Gardner leaned forward and faced Cobo. "In a strange way time affects every one involved in this case. Incidentally, that time when Mrs. Warner saw Potter again is quite important. We know now that the telephone call was phony. He went to meet Dolores as she came out the side door of the hotel with Peabody's dossier hidden under her bridal bouquet."

"And she did ask for more money?" Cobo interrupted quickly. "I check on that. Potter said 'yes,' took dossier to his room, by way of beach back of high garden hedge, got money, went back to see Mrs. Warner. Away as short time as possible."

Gardner's eyes showed his keen interest in what Cobo was saying. "The 'I' he supplemented quickly, 'he left her again to give money to Dolores and either killed her, or found her dead. What time was that?"

"Before pirate dance began. Exact time unknown." The soft scratch of the stenographer's pencil across her notebook was the only sound in the office as Cobo finished his brief statement.

"THERE'S one other thing that stands out in this case," Gardner said abruptly as the silence in the office grew noticeable. "And that is the general absence of clues. But that is always true in a strangling case or, as it happened last night. The killer attempted to crack open Peabody's head with a blunt weapon he carried off with him. He didn't leave a single finger print behind him in the room."

"We have Miss Van Tyne's gun."

"Yes. Heaven knows I wish she'd never bought it! But the most important clue to my way of thinking is a corpse, Potter's. It's a dead body that will trap this killer."

A shout made both men look up.

"Hi, fellows. Can the corner of this city have a few words with the police department and the Federal Bureau of Investigation?" Ramon called out cheerily from the doorway. "You two look solemn enough to be at a wake. Quibay, Cobo, Como le va."

He came across the office and accompanied his breezy salutation with a resounding whack on Cobo's back, which made the little chief flush with annoyance as he stared up at him.

"Why don't you step on it and do something in this case?" Ramon continued flippantly. "Any one can get away with murder down here. A week's passed, nearly, and you haven't done a thing. Seems to me you're damn slow."

Cobo jumped to his feet, his face an angry red. "We know what we do. This evening I arrest murder."

Ramon gave a start of surprise. "The hell you do!" he exclaimed. "That's more like it. If it's true. Not bad at all."

The dancer sat down on the end of the table and swung his legs carelessly back and forth as he considered Cobo's statement.

"If that's the case, chief, I guess I'll give you a hand."

"I called you for more facts about Dolores," Cobo returned stiffly. "You know her a long time."

"Oh, I'm going to do more for you than that," Ramon paused a moment to give full force to his next pronouncement. "You see, I know who killed Potter!"

DRAGONS LOSE TO DUBOIS; TIGERS LEAD SERIES, 3-2

Louie Bonace Sparks Locals In 28-7 Defeat By Powerful Beaver Crew; Jintown Friday

Warren High's Dragon football team opened a new and spirited season Friday night as they defeated the local Beaver team 28-7 in the first under-the-arc contest for the season at DuBois. Senior High Stadium before some 4,000 fans who never moved from their seats as a slight drizzle depended upon the field during almost the entire second half.

Although absorbing a 28-7 defeat, the Blue and White aspirants staged a brilliant battle all the way, rallying slightly in the final stanza as the powerful Beaver machine went air-minded to tally twice. The Beavers scored in the first period from the one-yard line and in the second on a pass before the Dragons moved into scoring position and Jimmy Scallise pulled his way over. At halftime, the Beavers held a 14-7 lead.

Friday's encounter definitely began a rivalry between the two schools which will probably reach importance that Warren-Jintown meetings have attained for many years. About 100 local fans followed the Dragons into the Jefferson county territory, and none went home dissatisfied.

Through the brilliant running and passing of junior Bert Federici, one of the last of a long line of brilliant gridiron stars under the name of Federici, the Beavers attempted to offset the Dragon hopes of a powerful air attack early in the game.

DuBois won the toss and Warren kicked off to Federici on his own 10, returning to his 28. On the first few plays, the Beavers started heaving aerials, but their effort failed and they were forced to resort to a fine ground attack. For the first seven minutes of the initial stanzas, the two eleven fought back and forth bitterly, neither team finding an opportunity scoring chance. DuBois went to definite position for a score when left tackle Pittsley recovered Dragon quarterback Louie Bonace's second blocked kick on the Warren 39. An incomplete pass and then two running plays gave the Beavers 11 yards and a first down on the Dragon 25. On a beautiful play, Federici passing to Selman who in turn lateraled to the Warren 45. Another first, completed, Federici let loose with a pass from the 40 to Conrad on the 23, who raced down the left side of the field for the second DuBois score. Federici kicked the point, making it 14-0.

Quarterback Louie Bonace then started flipping passes again to set the stage for the lone Dragon score. A 29-yard pass to Hamilton put the locals on their opponents' 49, a second to Shanshaia for a gain and another pass sent the Warrenites to the DuBois 24. Bonace was then forced to kick, but got off a bad boot and down and eight yards to go. Lopez picked up five on a plunge and Bonace went to the two foot line of another plunge. Fullback Jim Scallise went over for the score and Bonace plunged for the point to put Warren definitely back in the ball game.

At halftime, DuBois was still in the lead, 14-7.

Louie Bonace was definitely the Dragon sparkplug, both on offense and defense. His runbacks, passing, and defense contributed greatly to the game and his interception of a Beaver pass on his own goal line midway in the third quarter prevented another score after the Beavers had gone to the Dragon 11 on a 32-yard pass from Federici to Conrad and to the five on plunges.

The Dragons kicked out to midfield, but Federici returned the oval to the Warren 31. Conrad went to the 15 but lost fifteen yards on a penalty for clipping, but Krause made up the loss by streaking around his left end to the 15 as the quarter ended.

The fourth quarter proved to be fatal for the Dragons. Opening the quarter on the Warren 15, the Beavers went to the five, where they were stopped by the aggressive Warren line for three downs before Selman scored on a pass from Federici and Federici converted to make it 21-7.

Bonace made one of the game's most outstanding runs when he took the Beaver kick on his own 15 and smashed all the way to the DuBois 48, a 37-yard return. The Dragons lost possession, however, on their own 43 when Lopez fumbled and DuBois took over. Mabie and Conley racked up 27 yards on end runs to put their mates in scoring position again on the Dragon 15. Marching on to the six, Conrad heaved a pass to Lundgren who scored. Federici made good on his fourth conversion as the victors increased their margin to 28-7.

With very few minutes remaining, the Dragons made one last scoring attempt. Bonace received the kick on his 17 and went to the 26 then heaved a pass to Scallise for nine yards. He then went through the center for a first down to put the Dragons on the Warren 37. Scallise added six on a plunge and then Bonace went for 17 yards on a spinner play, putting the ball on DuBois' 40. Three ground plays rang up another first on the 20, Ray Reed snagged a pass to move to the 13 and Scallise followed on a plunge to the ten yard line. Krause put a stop to the advance when he intercepted a pass on the seven as the game ended.

Next Friday night, the Dragons move into their red-hot rivalry with the Jamestown Red Raiders, undefeated so far this season.

The Invaders

The Mustangs of Southern Methodist are headed by two ex-Marines who promise to be plenty tough. Co-captains Tom Dean, 240-pound tackle, left, and Howard Red Maley, 190-pound triple-threat back, both played for SMU before the war. Their army hitch didn't rob them of any of their aggressiveness. Remember, they were Marines.

Sheffield In 0-0 Deadlock At Smethport

Sheffield, Oct. 6—(Special)—Sheffield High's Wolverines footballers met with their second deadlock in succession today at Smethport, battling the Smethport eleven to a 0-0 tie on a rain-soaked field that hindered playing conditions extensively.

Coach L. O. Eisenhauer's proteges remain the only undefeated crew in the county, holding wins over Youngsville and Ridgway, and tying with Kane and Smethport.

The only scoring threat of the entire contest was made in the final stanza when the Wolverines marched to Smethport's 18-yard stripe. The Warren countyites chalked up 5 first downs to one for Smethport and gained a total of 77 yards rushing to their opponents' 51. Out of 11 aerials, Sheffield completed one and Smethport failed to succeed in eight tries.

Next Friday night, the Wolverines invade Corry for a night battle with the Beavers. The Corry battle is expected to be the high-lighting encounter of the season. Sheffield halting the Youngsville Eagles, 14-12, and Corry also defeating the Eagles, 7-0.

Detroit Relies Upon Bat Of Greenberg as Trucks, Claude Passeau Meet In 6th Today

Chicago, Oct. 8—(AP)—The sixth—and what could be the last—game of the Hank Greenberg baseball World Series comes off in Wrigley Field on the north side of town today.

This is going to be one of the richest fall classics of them all by the time they finish counting noses at 1:30 p. m. (EST), but forgetting sordid finance for the moment, the accent right now on these Greenberg gaieties is the possibility the Detroit Tigers might wind it up today, just because the big guy and his big bat are around.

They're going to go all out to do it, too, these Bengals, who've shown very little except an ability to produce hits and runs in one big spurge at any given moment.

The Tigers are sending out Virgil Trucks, 4-1 winner of the second scramble, to pour in his blaze-ball in the hope he can pick up the whole pot today after the merry-go-round on which they grabbed the brass ring yesterday to go in front for the first time in the set.

Against him, the Chicago Cubs, trailing three games to two and desperate, are cutting Claude Passeau's vacation short after two days' rest in the hope the 36-year-old Mississippi turg-out farmer can keep them in the series with a reasonable facsimile of his all-time series mound masterpiece of Friday, when he let the Tigers down with one hit, one base on balls and no runs.

And, they'll also probably have to use ace uncertain Len Merullo at shortstop in place of Roy Hughes, who was hit in the ankle with a batted ball during pre-game practice yesterday.

President Is Drafting Talk For TVA Visit

Caruthersville, Mo., Oct. 8.—(P)—President Truman began drafting today a speech championing multiple purpose development of waterways by regional authorities as he brought another Missouri visit to a close.

His luggage was packed for a two-day sojourn in Tennessee where the Tennessee Valley authority, the new deal's vast public power development celebrates the completion of its original ten-dam chain Wednesday.

The president plans to go to Gilbertsville, Ky., Wednesday for a speech at 12 noon dedicating Kentucky dam, the last of the major TVA flood control-navigational-power dams harnessing the Tennessee river.

In the meantime, however, the president planned to spend much of his time today and tomorrow relaxing on historic Reel Foot lake, west Tennessee's paradise for fishermen.

He brought his southwest Missouri visit to a close yesterday afternoon at the Pemiscot country fair with a speech in which he asked the cooperation of all the American people in bringing crisis on the home production front and a speedy solution.

To this task, he dedicated all the authority of his high office.

repeal of liberty-restricting laws are due by Oct. 15, when demobilization also is to be completed. Meanwhile there is the growing specter of famine; and frank skepticism of the press.

Demobilization of the last Japanese remaining under arms in the homeland now is only a matter of days, Allied headquarters announced today, noting that nearly 2,000,000 had laid down their arms by Oct. 1.

Before the printing press was invented, playing cards were hand painted.

Trio of Auto Crashes Over The Weekend

Officers from the local State Police barracks were called out on three highway accidents over the weekend, arrests following on two of the incidents and damages set at a high figure.

Allen L. Tubbs, of Grand Valley, was charged with failure to keep to the right side of the highway and paid a fine before Justice of the Peace Smith at Pittsfield, as a result of an accident which occurred about 12:15 p. m. Saturday one mile west of Pittsfield on Route 27. Tubbs, driving east and following a couple of trucks, struck the westbound car of Thomas A. Burnett, 5805 Glenwood avenue, Erie, damaging it to the extent of about $100.

Harold R. Henning, 13 Schanz street, will be arrested by the State Police on the same charge as the result of a crash just east of Clarendon borough line about 1:30 a. m. Saturday. Henning told police it was raining and he had trouble seeing the highway. He veered to the left and struck a car operated by Charles E. Church, of Corry, RD 2, which in turn went out of control and crashed into a Greyhound bus operated by E. H. Bresser, of West Lake, O. Damage to the bus amounted only to a bit of paint knocked off, but officials estimated the passenger cars suffered between $300 and $350 damage each. Two persons suffered bruises, but not of such extent as to require treatment or hospitalization.

The third accident took place at three o'clock Saturday afternoon on Route 6, about two miles west of Sheffield, when J. F. Hickey, of Tiona, stopped suddenly to talk to a friend standing in a driveway and was struck from the rear by another car operated by Joseph Sowa, of Ludlow. Damage to the two cars amounted to between $200 and $300, the State Police report.

America and its allies, unlawfully disregarded and failed to discharge his duty as commander to control operations of members of his command, permitting them to commit brutal atrocities and other high crimes against the people of the United States and of its allies and dependencies, particularly the Philippines, and he, General Tomoyuki Yamashita, thereby violated the laws of war.

Despite the general tone of the charges, Kerr left no doubt but that the prosecution was seeking the death penalty, and implied that the requested bill of particulars would supply "more than enough details."

Just before Yamashita was arraigned, Justice Alan James Mansfield, chief of the Australian War Crimes Commission, said that should he be acquitted by the U. S. Army court, Australia would try him for high crimes against Australian troops captured in the Japanese drive down Malaya.

The bullet-headed general was Nippon's top military hero after he directed the capture of Malaya and Singapore. He was rushed in to the breach in the Philippines but couldn't hold the line against General MacArthur's slugging forces. He went into hiding when he saw the signs of his defeat apenear, and came out only when his nation quit the fight.

He surrendered the Japanese troops in the Philippines to Lt. Gen. Wainwright, hero of Bataan and Corregidor, at Baguio on Sept. 2.

circles for his demand that all the major allies participate in peace discussions.

In almost identical words, Senator Hill of Alabama, the Democratic whip, and Chairman Walsh, (D-Mass.) of the senate naval committee, declared their support of Byrnes' opposition to Russian demands that the Big Three alone decide the fate of Europe.

Hill and Walsh, who often represent widely differing views on foreign policy matters, told a reporter: "The position taken by Secretary Byrnes not only meets with general approval in congress but almost unanimous approval by the people of the United States."

Similarly, Senator Ferguson (R-Mich.) said he thought it much better for Byrnes to "come back from London without any agreement than with a paper victory that sacrificed principles."

Senator Hayden (D-Ariz.) agreed and Senator LaFollette (Prog-Wis.) said he was in "entire sympathy" with Byrnes' demand that "the peace we are going to ask the help of the world to maintain should not be written by three powers in secret."

GETTING BACK INTO THE SWING OF THINGS

"I won't know how to act when I'm a civilian again" is a common expression in the services. But it really is amazing how quickly you slip back into the ordinary routines of daily life.

There are new problems of course, many of them. Some of the more important ones involve your job, home, health, education and family. And almost every problem has an important financial side.

No one is better equipped—by training, experience and access to current information—to give you financial counsel and advice than your bank. No one is better able to help you with actual service such as loans than your bank. And certainly no one wants to help you and serve you any more sincerely than this bank.

So the logical thing to do is come in and see us. Everything will be in complete confidence. ★ ★ ★

(From Page One)

Second Inning Tigers

Greenberg flied out to Lowrey in left center field. Passeau was working very deliberately. Cullenbine carried the count to 3-2 and then walked. Rudy York connected with the first pitch for a double to right-center, sending Cullenbine to third. Outlaw was purposely passed filling the sacks. Richards walked, forcing in Cullenbine with the game's first run. Trucks popped out to Hughes on the grass, the runners holding their bases. Webb bounced to Hughes who stepped on second to force Richards for the third out, one run, one hit, no errors, three left.

Second Inning Cubs

Pafko shot a ground single through the box and into center field. Nicholson fouled out to York, just off rst base. Livingston forced Pafko at second, Mayo to Webb, but Webb made a wild throw past first and Livingston tore out for second. Richards recovered the ball and pegged to Webb, who put the ball on Livingston for a double play. No runs, one hit, no errors, none left.

Third Inning Tigers

Mayo went out, Johnson to Cavaretta. Cramer popped out to Cavaretta. Greenberg went out, Hughes to Cavaretta. No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Third Inning Cubs

Hughes struck out, swinging. Passeau also was a strikeout victim. Hack drove the second pitch to center for a clean single. Johnson flied to Cramer in center. No runs, one hit, no errors, one left.

Fourth Inning

Tigers—Cullenbine reached first when Johnson booted his easy roller. York popped out foul to Cavaretta. Johnson threw Outlaw out at first, Cullenbine taking second. Richards was purposely walked. Trucks worked Passeau for a pass, filling the bases. Both Passeau and Livingston protested vigorously. Webb sent Pafko far back to take his fly. No runs, no hits, one error, three left.

West Coast Man Suicides In Automobile

Albert P. Hobbs, a resident of Santa Barbara, Calif., who has been in Warren for some time in the employment of E. D. Wetmore, of North Warren, was found dead Saturday evening in his Plymouth coupe parked along the Beaver run road in Farmington township about three miles from Lander, County and state officials investigating the demise stated they found a garden hose attached to the exhaust pipe of the car with the other end leading through the trunk and opening into the back of the seat. Death was doubtless due to carbon monoxide gas from the exhaust.

Associates stated that Mr. Hobbs was last seen on Tuesday, when he was engaged in his usual chores. He had been despondent for some time it was said although he was not heard to threaten to take his own life.

Mr. Hobbs doubtless was well prepared for the rash act. The connection on the exhaust was well wrapped to avoid the possibility of the poisonous gas leaking before it entered the coupe. When found the body was sprawled across the seat. The doors were securely locked on the inside and it was necessary to break a window to unlock them. It was apparent he had been dead for several days.

Friends stated the Deluxe Plymouth coupe in which the act was committed was recently purchased by Mr. Hobbs in Corry. The tragedy was investigated by Coroner Ed Lowrey and Pvt. A. A. Vavrick, of the local barracks of the state police, who had been notified of the suicide by residents of the vicinity who became suspicious after they had observed the car throughout the day and evening. Reports were sent in to Warren from two different sources before the officers arrived.

An element of mystery was injected into the case when it was discovered that the ignition was turned off on the car and it appeared there was plenty of gasoline in the tank. What prompted Mr. Hobbs to turn off the engine will never be known.

The body is at the Lutz funeral home and word is awaited from relatives on the coast as to what disposition is to be made of the remains. Little is known about survivors other than the fact that he is known to have a daughter about eleven years of age.

From the Williams Grove, Pa., raceway, scenes of the national speed races, comes word that one person died and 13 other persons were injured when a speeding racing car catapulted from the track during yesterday's time trials. Mark Light, Lebanon, Pa., driver of the car, is also hospitalized with a possible fractured back.

Our friend, Major Hoople emerged today congratulating himself on a fairly good prediction day Saturday. Episcopalians Are Stressing South American Efforts

Members of the Episcopal church are doing two things just now, according to information from the national headquarters of the denomination received by the Rev. Beecher M. Rutledge, rector of Trinity Memorial parish here. They are studying about the missionary work their church is engaged in, overseas and here at home, and already they are giving money for the rehabilitation of church property destroyed or damaged by war, and for extension of missionary work in all fields.

The church is seeking a minimum of five million dollars for these purposes, and church leaders believe there are many indications that the goal will be exceeded. The largest total reported so far is from the Diocese of Pennsylvania, which includes Philadelphia and surrounding counties. Episcopalians there are trying to raise $500,000 and already more than $400,000 is in sight.

The plan in use throughout the Episcopal Church is for all members, old and young, to study a different mission field each month. This month they will concentrate on Latin America. The idea is that if people are thoroughly informed about what is being done and what are the needs and opportunities, there will be no difficulty in securing their enthusiastic support.

Study material is supplied to parishes all over the country from national church headquarters. That used this month tells of Episcopal work in Cuba, Haiti, the Dominican Republic, Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands, Mexico, the Panama Zone and Brazil. It is explained that the aim of the Episcopal Church is to build up a strong native church in each of these missionary areas, to be staffed and eventually supported and governed by the native people. The work done is evangelistic, educational and medical. Illiteracy is a serious problem in every Latin American country; even in Puerto Rico, a part of the United States, where more than a third of the people cannot read or write. Ill health comes from lack of knowledge of hygiene and sanitation, and poverty which prevents proper food and clothing. The Episcopal missions in Latin America, in addition to preaching and teaching the Christian religion, are fighting the causes of illiteracy and ill health.

Latin American people are highly responsive to the appeal of the Episcopal church. Growth in the past year indicates advances of from thirteen to as high as ninety-nine per cent in number of communicants.

These are some of the facts that Episcopalians are studying this month, all over the country, in order that they may know what their church is doing, and why.

TO YOKOHAMA

T/4 Raymond Smith, of Hemlock street, has written home that he has been transferred from Leyte to Yokohama and is now at Gen. Eichelberger's headquarters, detailed to set up communications in Gen. MacArthur's headquarters. He also reports he is operating in the same building in which Gen. MacArthur has his office and has seen him on several occasions. In his letter he states that Yokohama is a "mess" of rubble except in some areas, and the people have taken old tin and made themselves homes out of it right where their plants had been burned down from the bombings.

His brother, Yeoman Second Class Frank, Jr., is also somewhere, in Tokyo Bay, aboard a flagship.

QUARTERLY CLOSE-OUT SALE

The Curious Clue

BY RUFUS HEED

Chapter 25

IN A flash, Cobo's irritation vanished. He motioned to the stenographer to continue taking her notes, then he said to Ramon in a level, non-committal voice:

"Good! You just the man we look for. You talk now, please."

At that moment the telephone on Cobo's desk began to ring. The stenographer answered it and then handed the receiver to Cobo.

"For you, Chief."

Cobo listened in silence to the voice at the other end of the line. Then he said briefly:

"Yes, Dr. Waldo. Depend on me. I see it done. Muchas gracias."

"What did that medico want?" Ramon asked curiously. "He's been as busy as a bird dog since I came back from Miami. I haven't seen him for a second and tomorrow morning I've got to hold an inquest. Didn't he send me a message?"

"He not say. Personal call for me. Now we listen to you tell us who killed Potter."

"Okay. Only I must tell it my way. You have to get a little of the background. It will take a few minutes. Do you mind?"

UNDERNEATH his casual air of debonair assurance, Gardner detected a slight nervousness in Ramon's manner as if, now that he had started, the story he was to tell was not an easy one for him to go through with. However, he started out promptly enough.

"Dolores and Suzy Van Tyne were both in love with me," Gardner looked at his spectacles skeptically. Conceit like this was exactly what he had expected from the dancer, but he made no comment as Ramon continued.

"When Suzy began to come to the studio every day, Dolores began to make trouble. Dolores was a hot-head, and it finally had to tell her to lay off Suzy, or I'd fire her. But she kept calling her objectionable names and getting in her hair, until the Friday morning before the Fashion Show. Then she went too far."

"That morning in the studio she walked over to Suzy and slapped her face. Never in her life had a thing like that happened to Suzy Van Tyne and I must say I respect her for the way she took it," Ramon chuckled. "She was good. She swung back and gave Dolores a clip that almost put her out. She took all the starch out of her and she started to cry."

"In a second, Suzy was desperately sorry. You could see that. Later she and Dolores went off by themselves and Dolores told me Suzy apologized and told her how badly she felt over the whole affair. It was then she offered to pay Dolores' fare to New York City if she would go right away. Dolores said she would, and Suzy gave her a check for $200. Dolores opened a bank account with it the same day."

Ramon lighted a cigarette, gave it a few long drags, and continued with his story. "I only tell you this to show you that the two girls had reached the hair-pulling stage. Then Peabody came on the scene and things happened fast. Dolores was furiously jealous of me, but she saw a chance of getting more money from Suzy once she suspected that Peabody and Suzy were engaged. She evidently knew that long before I did."

There was a bitterness back of that remark which did not escape Gardner's keen ear.

"I knew nothing of the money Suzy had given Dolores until she met me in the garden while the Fashion Show was going on. She told me then. We were just coming back to the hotel entrance, on Suzy's wing of the building, when we met Dolores coming off the runway. She blew up when she saw us together."

"Suzy made a dash for the stairs and Dolores started running ahead of her up the stairs to Suzy's room, where she was dressing that evening."

"What did Dolores tell Miss Van Tyne?" Gardner asked suddenly.

"How in Hell should I know? But whatever it was, it must have been pretty hard for Suzy to take because—because—" for an instant the dancer's voice faltered, and he looked down at the cigarette which he was slowly crumbling into a small pile of tobacco and bits of paper, "because Dolores was dead within 10 or 12 minutes. She was dead when we all met in the lobby to go on with our dance."

No one spoke for a few seconds, then Cobo said in a quiet voice, "So that's the way it was."

"Yes," Ramon answered slowly. "Suzy strangled her in a fury over what she had told her. Did you ever see Miss Van Tyne's hands? They are as strong as any man's. The whole horrible business was over in a couple of minutes," Dr. Blair said.

"You've certainly given a clear picture of the events leading up to the tragedy," Gardner pushed his chair back and started pacing slowly up and down the office at the far end of Cobo's desk. "Only thing I can't quite see is a girl of Suzy Van Tyne's background and breeding strangling any one . . ."

"Say, brother. You don't know girls as I do! When girls fight, they pull hair and tear clothes. Dolores' wedding dress was torn down the back, where Suzy ripped it as they were fighting together. The clothes Dolores wore at the Fashion Show are here in Cobo's office. You can prove what I say. Don't take my word for it."

"I don't," Cobo murmured. "Proof is here. Torn dress proof of killer. Okay, proceed, please."

Gardner stopped his pacing beside Ramon's chair and stood looking down at her for a moment. Then he asked:

"What time would you say Dolores was killed?"

"It was 20 minutes to 10 when she met me coming from the garden. Five minutes later Suzy started after Dolores up the stairs to her bedroom. Suzy left her room and was in the lobby at three minutes to 10, so Dolores was killed about eight minutes to 10."

Gardner looked at Cobo, who nodded with an expressionless face.

"That's accurate and quite a help to us, Ramon, in the final clean up of the case. The exact time of Dolores' death is important. It is a point we weren't sure of until you gave us all the facts."

"Dolores' murder we know now. Tell us how Potter died . . ."

PACT SOUGHT TO END SOFT COAL STRIKE

Secretary of Labor Resumes Efforts to Have 163,000 Miners Return to Pits

LEWIS IS HOLDING OUT

Washington, Oct. 8.—(AP)—John L. Lewis was absent today when conferences were resumed between bituminous coal operators and United Mine Workers in a government-sponsored effort to end a strike of 163,000 soft coal miners.

An associate said Lewis had a prior engagement which kept him from attending the morning session, but the miners' president was expected to join the conferences later today.

Midway in the morning session, the producers asked for a private huddle with Secretary of Labor Schweinfach, who called the meetings. The reason for their request was not announced.

At issue is recognition for Lewis's foremen's union.

Lewis wants to talk with the operators about recognizing the union. But the operators say they won't talk until the strikers go back to work.

Schweinfach called in both sides Saturday for a fill-in on the strike background.

He called them back today, hopeful he would be able to convince them that coal production is essential that both Lewis and the operators will have to give ground.

The mine owners asked the union chief Saturday to halt the spreading work stoppages, but Lewis refused, saying the walkouts were being locally by his of United Clerical, Technical and Supervisory Employees and that the United Mine Workers Union was not responsible.

The UMW chief added that the coal strike did not involve wages or a shorter work week—the issues in most other strikes.

After the Saturday meeting recessed Schweinfach indicated to reporters he thought the wage strikes might be lessened by a clear-cut government pattern and set out to fix one.

He said he would seek the aid of the War Labor Board, which now is a part of his department, in pushing through test case involving a demand for a 30 per cent wage increase and an employer's refusal for a higher price to offset such a raise.

It is estimated by most unions that the loss in take home pay with the change from a 48-hour week to a 40-hour week amounts to around 30 per cent.

The government's policy adopted immediately after Japanese surrender permits wage increases in any amount if they are not to be used as the basis for high prices. Approval of the OPA and Office of Economic Mobilization is required, however, where any increase in price ceilings is sought.

Rehearing Denied In A. P. Decision

Washington, Oct. 8.—(AP)—The supreme court refused today to grant a rehearing on its decision that the Associated Press must amend its by-laws affecting admission of members.

The high tribunal in a 5 to 3 decision last June affirmed a lower court finding that the by-laws restraining trade and thus violate the Sherman anti-trust act. It directed amendment of the by-laws to prevent the press from considering competitive acts of an application for membership.

The AP, in asking a rehearing, contended among other things that to require opening of its membership was not an appropriate way to achieve objectives of the Sherman act.

The Chicago Tribune and its publisher, Robert R. McCormick, among the co-defendants with the AP in the justice Department's civil suit, also asked a rehearing. The court also denied the Tribune's petition.

Second Tragedy Occurs In West Coast Love Triangle

San Francisco, Oct. 8.—(AP)—Dr. John H. Mansfield has joined in death the nurse his wife has been charged with murdering in a tragic climax to a supposed love triangle.

The body of the 48-year-old prominent San Francisco physician was found on Sunday morning slumped in the front seat of his car, parked at the top of a cliff in a remote ocean front picnic ground 19 miles south of this city.

Deputy Coroner Ida M. Lasswell said he had been dead for three days. Evidence showed he had taken his own life with a powerful poison within a few hours of the time his wife, Annie Irene, 45, had been charged with the murder of Mrs. Vada Martin, the woman she believed was the rival for her husband's affection.

Mrs. Mansfield collapsed in the city jail when she was told of her husband's death.

Cured By Vision

Declaring that a vision of Jesus Christ had appeared to her three times, saying she would regain her health, Ninabelle Cross, 39, above, is now gaily shopping for an up-to-date wardrobe in Upper Sandusky, O., after being an invalid for 16 years. Laval Locked In Dungeon As Trial Resumes

Paris, Oct. 8.—(AP)—Pierre Laval was reported by court attendants to be locked in a dungeon beneath the Palais De Justice today as the fourth day of his treason trial started late without the swarthy defendant on hand.

The former premier's lawyers consulted Judge Paul Mongibeaux and told him Laval refused to "associate myself with a judicial crime." Thus, the former Vichy chief of government was maintaining a decision he reached Saturday not to attend the trial for his life.

Part of the hour and 33 minutes was caused by the absence of one of the resistance jurors, Jean Germain. He was replaced by one of the two remaining substitute jurors. Twelve of the jurors are from parliament; the other 12 are from the resistance movement which opposed Germany and the Vichy government during the occupation.

More Violence In Hollywood Strike

Hollywood, Oct. 8.—(AP)—At least 12 strikers and two policemen were injured early today in brief but wild fighting at the entrance to Warner Brothers studio when officers charged a mass group of approximately 200 pickets to clear a passageway for studio workers.

Approximately 150 police and sheriff's deputies and the pickets fought for about 15 minutes as the officers, using night-sticks, cleared a way through the movie strikers and formed a double line through which the workers passed into the studio.

Witnesses said some of the pickets used canes and clubs in the battle.

Two ambulances took the injured pickets to hospitals.

It was the same entrance gates that fighting broke out last Friday and some 25 or more men and women were injured.

Court injunctions were issued Saturday ordering the studio and workers to restrain from violence.

REFINERIES IN AREA NOT ON SEIZURE LIST

Spokesman for Striking Oil Workers Says Back-to-Work Order Not Effective in the Valley

MORE MAY BE CLOSED

Oil City, Oct. 8.—(AP)—A spokesman for striking oil workers in Venango county said today a back-to-work order issued by the president of the International Oil Workers Union was directed at navy-seized operations in other parts of the country, and does not affect between 800 and 900 workers striking here.

The navy, at Washington, said that the northwest Pennsylvania plants were not on its present seizure list.

Three refineries were shut down by a strike of CIO-oil workers, and three more closed after AFL employees refused to cross picket lines.

Small, independent dealers began to feel the pinch of gasoline shortage, but some large companies were trucking gasoline into this oil-producing region.

The Petroleum Dealers Association predicted supplies would become "tight" during the present week.

Local buses had a supply to operate for three days, the Citizens Transit Company announced, but added it would make no prediction past that time.

W. R. Wonsettler, international union representative, said picketing today was confined to already-closed refineries, but that there were "indications" of plants away from here might be closed by strikes.

There was no indication, he said, that workers in refineries at Butler and Titusville might strike.

A spokesman for the Pennzoil Co. had expressed the belief earlier that the northwestern Pennsylvania refinery workers would hold out until the international union ended the strike. He said the company had started wage conferences with its employees after V-J day, but that it believed now a separate settlement was unlikely.

Later, the plants of the Continental Refining Co. near Oil City, the Wolf's Head Oil Refining Co. at Reno, and the Franklin Creek Refining Co. at Franklin shut down when members of an AFL union refused to cross picket lines established by the CIO.

Mounting Coal Shortage Felt In Steel Mills

Pittsburgh, Oct. 8.—(AP)—The steel industry today faced the task of curtailing production because of a mounting coal shortage, and of opening negotiations with the CIO-United Steelworkers union on their demand for a $2 wage boost.

The coal shortage, mushrooming from a bid of a supervisory workers union for recognition, have forced the closing of more than 600 mines in a six-state area, with some 163,400 miners remaining away from their jobs.

Meanwhile, John L. Lewis, United Mine Workers' chief, and soft coal operators were to renew talks in Washington today in an effort to reach a settlement of the dispute.

The conference opened Saturday with neither side yielding any point.

The initial parley on the wage boost demand for the steelworkers will be held here Wednesday, when union leaders said they sit down at a conference table with representatives of five subsidiaries of United States Steel Corp.

The steel industry declares such a raise would not be granted without hiking steel prices, while CIO President Philip Murray has contended the increase is necessary to compensate for a cut in "take home" pay due to reduced hours.

In West Virginia 239 miners are down and 64,560 men idle, with a complete shutdown threatened unless a quick settlement is reached.

Old Glory Planted on Mount Fujiyama

Tokyo, Oct. 8.—(AP)—Old glory flies today from Fujiyama—planted there Sept. 21 by a valiant band of ten officers and enlisted men of the 27th Infantry Division after a tortuous climb in snow, wind, hail, fog and rain.

The rare atmosphere at the top of Japan's 12,385-foot sacred mountain played tricks on their vision, the climbers said. Stones and shoes appeared green-blue. Eyeballs burned. Heavy fog cut their vision to arm's length.

Fourteen set out to make the climb. Two aggravated old leg injuries and were forced to turn back. Two others turned back to help the injured, down the mountain.

Two days later a medical unit had blazed a trail to the flag party, and left the division's insignia tacked to the 12,000-foot marker.

League of Angry G. I. Wives Plans Action

London, Oct. 8.—(AP)—Thousands of war brides, left behind in the British Isles when their G. I. husbands were shipped home, are planning a demonstration aimed at stirring shipping authorities to action in getting them to the United States.

A parade of protest—planned by the brides for Thursday—was called off today by police. So, the girls are now looking for a large hall, since 10,000 women are expected to attend. They will represent the wives of 54,000 Americans, 34,000 Canadians and enough others from British dominions to bring the total to about 100,000.

At Edinburgh more than 100 banded into a "League of Angry Wives."

One man is being detained in Warren county jail and another is in serious condition in Warren General Hospital as the result of an altercation which is said by police officials to have taken place early Sunday morning on the John Wojtowicz farm at Garland.

William Parker, caretaker of the farm, was admitted to the hospital Sunday for treatment of a severe laceration on the side of his head, said to have been inflicted by a tire pump wielded by Bernard Robbins, who farmed the property.

Robbins is being held in jail by the sheriff's office and Pennsylvania State Police, pending their investigation and the outcome of Parker's injuries.

The argument is believed to have arisen over the fact that Robbins, who was installed on the property as farmer when his owner began a 12 to 20 months sentence in a burglary house on the grounds they failed to state a single violation of the laws of war on the part of the accused. He won a small concession, however, when the commission's presiding officer, Maj. Gen. R. B. Reynolds of Dundee, Mich., ordered the prosecution to supply the defense with a bill of particulars specifically outlining the crimes of which Yamashita is accused.

Reynolds overrode the contention of the chief prosecutor, Maj. Robert M. Kerr of Portland, Ore., that the proceedings were nothing like those of any ordinary court of law and that no detailed statement of charges was required.

Kerr also protested bitterly the appointment of the two Japanese generals to Yamashita's defense staff, but Reynolds allowed their appointment "in the interest of a fair trial." Kerr heatedly protested the appearance of "such men before this commission as lawyers."

and argued that it might later have an effect on their own trials. Clarke had asked for their addition to the defense staff on the ground they were acquainted with many facts concerning Yamashita of which he knew nothing.

The formal charge against Yamashita said only that the accused: "At Manila and other places in the Philippines, while commander of the armed forces of Japan at war with the United States of America..."

Hess Returned To Reich For Trial

London, Oct. 8.—(AP)—The British ministry announced today that Rudolf Hess had left England in an RAF plane this morning for Frankfurt on the first leg of a journey to Nuremberg, where he will stand trial as a Nazi war criminal.

The erstwhile number two Nazi, who parachuted down on the Scottish moors in May, 1941, was driven from his place of detention to the airport by a British army car with the blinds drawn.

Unshaven and impassive, Hess appeared much thinner than his most recent photographs. He was wearing a gray civilian suit and gray slouch hat.

Hess was accompanied by one army guard, a medical officer and attendant, and an official of the Allied Air Crimes Commission.

Formalities at the airport were quickly completed and only a few RAF personnel saw the plane leave at 8:50 a. m.

Hess' whereabouts had been a closely guarded secret throughout the war. During the past six months, at least, he had been living underground near the little Welsh village of Abergavenny.

While the other 44 SS guards and camp attendants jointly on trial with Kramer before a British military court, listened intently, he told of a riot in a concentration camp just a year and a day ago.

"There was a revolt. Persons tried to escape and there was firing near crematoriums one and three. I was in the garden of my home about four kilometers away. My driver came and asked if I knew crematorium three was in flames. When I arrived, it was burned out already. All the prisoners who took part in the mutiny were shot when I got there."

Eyes to the floor, Kramer insisted he did not know who ordered the prisoners shot.

He described the Polish camp at Oswiecim as "a camp which I did not wish to enter."

Washington, Oct. 8.—(AP)—Secretary of State Byrnes goes to Capitol Hill today to explain American foreign policy amid indications of strong backing for his stand at the recent London conference.

Chairman Connally (D-Tex.) arranged to have Byrnes give the foreign relations committee a peek into the background of the conference which broke up in an argument with the Russians over who shall share in writing the peace.

YAMASHITA ENTERS PLEA OF NOT GUILTY

Blatant Japanese General Who Swaggered to Victory in Malaya and Then Hid in Hills

FIRST ON A LONG LIST

Manila, Oct. 8.—(AP)—Big blatant Lt. Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita, who swaggered to victory for Japan in Malaya then hid in the hills when the Americans came back for the Philippines, pleaded innocent to war criminal charges today, and his trial was set for Oct. 29.

The six-foot, paunchy Yamashita was the first of a long list of Japanese war-criminal suspects to be hauled into court for arraignment.

Clicking his spurred bootheels together, he responded a brisk "not guilty" to charges that he permitted brutal atrocities against Americans and Filipinos while he commanded Japanese forces in the Philippines.

A United States military commission of five generals heard his plea, immediately fixed the date of the trial and directed that it be held in the war-scarred former residence of the Philippine high commissioner.

The 50-year-old "Tiger of Malaya" won one round and lost one at the start of his fight for life. Soft-voiced Chief Council Colonel Harry E. Clarke, of Altoona, Pa., obtained the appointment of Yamashita's former chief of staff and deputy chief of staff, Lt. Gen. Kato and Maj. Gen. Utsunomiya to the defense council staff—a surprising move in view of the fact that both are being held in new Bilibid prison as war criminal suspects.

Clarke failed in a dramatic move to have the charges against the droopy-jawed general stricken altogether on the grounds they failed to state a single violation of the laws of war on the part of the accused. He won a small concession, however, when the commission's presiding officer, Maj. Gen. R. B. Reynolds of Dundee, Mich., ordered the prosecution to supply the defense with a bill of particulars specifically outlining the crimes of which Yamashita is accused.

Reynolds overrode the contention of the chief prosecutor, Maj. Robert M. Kerr of Portland, Ore., that the proceedings were nothing like those of any ordinary court of law and that no detailed statement of charges was required.

Kramer Puts Blame Upon Higher Ups

Lueneburg, Germany, Oct. 8.—(AP)—Josef Kramer swore on the Bible today that he was innocent of war crimes and that atrocities committed at the Oswiecim and Belsen concentration camps he commanded were on orders from higher placed Nazis.

Kramer, described as the "beast of Belsen," leaped from the prisoners' cage like a football player from a bench and trotted to the witness stand where he testified in a high pitched nasal voice.

He said he was a loyal Nazi and a member of the SS and as such only carried out obediently the orders of the Hitler hierarchy.

While the other 44 SS guards and camp attendants jointly on trial with Kramer before a British military court, listened intently, he told of a riot in a concentration camp just a year and a day ago.

"There was a revolt. Persons tried to escape and there was firing near crematoriums one and three. I was in the garden of my home about four kilometers away. My driver came and asked if I knew crematorium three was in flames. When I arrived, it was burned out already. All the prisoners who took part in the mutiny were shot when I got there."

Husky Virgil Trucks Opposes Passeau in Vital Game Today

Wrigley Field, Chicago, Oct. 8.—(AP)—The Detroit Tigers pushed a run across on one hit and three walks in the second inning of the sixth game of the series today to take a 1-0 lead over the Chicago Cubs before a crowd of some 44,000 fans in cold, cloudy weather.

After completing 8 1/2 innings of hitless ball against the Bengals, beginning with two out in the second inning last Friday, Claude Passeau walked Roy Cullenbine with one out in the second today to start the Tiger rally.

Immediately afterward, Rudy York, who got the only hit off Passeau Friday, pounded the first pitch on a line into right center for two bases to advance Cullenbine to third.

Jim Outlaw was given an intentional walk to load the bases. At this point, Passeau's control left him and Paul Richards waited out the full count and drew a pass, forcing in the run.

The Tigers, needing but one victory to win the 1945 World Series, sent their husky young right-hander, Virgil Trucks, to the hill against the Chicago Cubs in the sixth game here today.

Opposing Trucks, who trimmed the Cubs 4-1 in the second game of the series, was Claude Passeau, 36-year-old Chicago right-hander who shutout Detroit with a single hit in the third contest.

Roy Hughes, regular Cubs shortstop, returned to the line-up after having been out of yesterday's game with a bruised ankle, hit in batting practice. The day was chilly, with the temperature hovering in the high 40s, and the sun was peeping out only at intervals when the game began.

Chandler Rumor Denied by Owners

Chicago, Oct. 8.—(AP)—Big league baseball club-owners, after a hurried meeting today announced "there is no basis" for reports that they are so dissatisfied with Commissioner Happy Chandler's administration they are considering buying up his contract.

Bringing into the open several quiet rumors of the past few weeks of growing dissension between club owners and the commissioner, the club representatives got together in what they described as an "informal" meeting to hurriedly talk the thing over.

"There is no basis of fact to the story," they announced afterwards, referring to one published item last night that there is a move afoot to pick up the seven-year, $20,000-a-year contract given to Chandler when he was named czar of baseball last spring.

Chandler, reached for comment this morning by newspapermen, said he knew nothing about the rumors, but asserted "I have a seven year contract locked in my safe in Kentucky."

TWO PILOTS INJURED IN JAMESTOWN CRASH

Jamestown, N. Y., Oct. 8.—(AP)—Two pilots, injured when their planes collided in mid-air and crashed in a swamp, were reported in good condition at General Hospital today.

The two, Sven Matson, 40, and Samuel Dimas, 25, both of Jamestown, were piloting Piper Cubs in an air show race at Municipal airport yesterday when the accident occurred. Police said the planes were badly damaged.

PROCEDURE SETS A NEW PRECEDENT

Premier Shidehara Plans First Meeting Before Reporting Roster to Emperor

STRIKES ARE SPREADING

Tokyo, Oct. 8.—(AP)—Aging, dapper Premier Kijuri Shidehara completed his "safe and sane" government for a hungry, restless Japan today, and planned the first meeting of his 15-man cabinet immediately, even before reporting its roster to the emperor—an unprecedented procedure.

Domestic News Agency said he would outline bluntly the headaches ahead for the new government.

A brand new domestic trouble has added to Shidehara's burdens today—strikes. More than 6,000 Korean coal miners in the Yubari have struck, Domest News Agency said, and the "unrest seems to be spreading to an adjoining mine. Close of the strike was not announced.

Acceptance by Adm. Soemmu Tayoda of the navy portfolio completed the new cabinet—said Secretary Dairaburo, likely to meet with General MacArthur's approval. Tazugira also predicted that "another new cabinet will be formed by political party when a majority party comes out of the general elections" next January.

Baron Shidehara drew heavily upon parliamentary—and untried liberals—to make up his new 15-man cabinet.

Holding a cabinet post without the rank of minister is Wataru Harahashi, 41, parliamentarian who is president of the board of legislation.

Although the new government probably will be allowed to get bearings in office before it is hit by further Allied orders as sweeping as General MacArthur's "freedom" directive which upset the former cabinet, it already has two blunt deadlines to meet.

Political prisoners must be released by Oct. 10, and reports on removal of thought police and (Turn to Page Nine)

Erie County Has A Freak Accident

Erie, Oct. 8.—(AP)—A freak accident occurred near here yesterday in which the body of John R. Doolittle, 33, steel company superintendent, was found a mile and a half from where his automobile crashed into a parked car.

At first it was believed the man had wandered off in a dazed condition from the scene of the accident and had been struck by another car.

Later investigation by Coroner W. V. Wood and state police disclosed Doolittle had been thrown out of his car by the impact and that as he lay on the road another machine ran over him. The mechanism underneath this car is believed to have caught the man's clothing, dragging him along the highway to the point where his body was found.

Two other persons in Doolittle's machine were injured, and the parked car was knocked into a house, causing some damage.

FOUR FATALITIES IN THE PITTSBURGH AREA

Pittsburgh, Oct. 8.—(AP)—Four persons were killed in accidents here over the weekend.

The dead were: Gloria Ann Leyton, 14, William D. Elleck, 20, John Benazet, 61, and John H. Brown, 50, all of Pittsburgh.

John Benazet and Elleck were killed when their automobile driven by Elleck, collided with a street car. Four of the other five occupants of the car were injured.

Benazet was struck by an automobile while crossing a street. Brown was struck by a car just before midnight Saturday.

Romance Between Officer And WAVE Ends in Tragedy

New York, Oct. 8.—(AP)—A navy lieutenant was found dead and a Wave lieutenant was found unconscious early this morning in a room at Hotel Governor Clinton.

Police identified them as Lieut. John Gerald Mooney, 37, of 35th street, Washington, D. C., was found dead, and Lt. (j. g.) Pauline Elizabeth Rupp, 34, of San Francisco.

More States Are Said To Be Adopting Supervised Study

(Special Correspondence)
Scranton, Sept. 8.—Plans for the use of correspondence courses through the public schools in vocational training for returned veterans are being adopted in many parts of the country, George W. Wilson, vice president of International Correspondence Schools, said today. Such a plan was first adopted by certain school districts in New Jersey during the spring and is now being developed also in Colorado, Michigan, New Hampshire, Vermont, Virginia and other states.

The rapid spread of the idea, Mr. Wilson said, indicate it provides a satisfactory solution to some of the more serious educational problems of the ex-servicemen. He pointed out that adoption of the plan in New Jersey was announced in May, that the passage of special legislation to facilitate similar arrangements in Michigan was announced in June, and that word has come from other States during the summer that steps are being taken to put the plan into effect when the public schools reopen in the fall for the first postwar year.

In New Jersey, where the program was first developed, Mr. Wilson stated, it has already been in operation during the summer in three schools and has been approved for 24 others, including two of the largest in the State.

Under the G. I. Bill of Rights, according to Mr. Wilson, training may be provided for veterans through correspondence courses by public schools approved by the State departments. In New Jersey those courses are conducted under the supervision of a member of the public school faculty, through whom the regular correspondence instruction material is channelled. This method makes it possible for one instructor to supervise a group of 25 or 30 students, all studying different courses which they began at different times. It also makes available to the students a wider variety of subjects than most schools are equipped to offer and permits the returned veteran to follow the course of his choice while carrying a full-time job.

As an example, Mr. Wilson cited the first group organized in New Jersey, in which the subjects studied range from accounting and advertising through engineering, refrigeration and plastics to tea room and cafeteria management—and all the students are employed.

ASKS CONSIDERATION

Members of the Erie county Bar Association have formulated a petition to Pres. Truman asking that when the next Federal Judge for this district is appointed that it be a northwestern Pennsylvania man. The petition will be submitted to the Bar Associations of Warren, Crawford and Elk counties.

CASHIER SHORTCHANGED

One of the cashiers at the Loblaw store was the victim of a short change artist last Friday. The fellow bought a package of cigarettes and tendered a $20 bill. The girl changed it and then the fellow discovered he had a one dollar bill. He suggested the price of the cigarettes be taken out of that and before the girl realized what was done he had disappeared. Other merchants are warned to be on the lookout for a repetition of the old racket.

Page Hollow Sawmill Loss In Fierce Fire

Sunday afternoon about 3 o'clock the saw mill in Page Hollow, near Youngsville was discovered to be in flames. Smoke was ascending high in the air and Ellis Bilsboro, out for a pleasure ride discovered the blaze. He telephoned C. C. Johnson who with his son owns and operates the mill and they at once went to the scene.

Many were attracted by the smoke and volunteers worked hard and managed to save several large piles of sawed lumber. The mill was a total loss. The mill had been in operation on Saturday and when shut down for the weekend all fires were drawn and indications were that everything was in good shape.

Mr. Johnson and son are highly appreciative of the work of the men who assisted them as the group worked until after nightfall to check the fire that threatened the lumber in the stacks.

The mill was well equipped and the loss is quite a heavy one to the owners.

Another Secret Weapon Is Revealed

Damaged Battleship Repaired in Floating Dock

Hit by a Jap Kamikaze bomber, the U. S. S. Mississippi became the first battleship to be placed in the floating drydock above for repairs, as shown in official Navy photo made last June at Guluian anchorage, Samar Island, in the Philippines. It was necessary to pump out 700,000 gallons of fuel oil to lighten the Mississippi sufficiently to enter the dock.

The Bomb That May Have Started War

The bomb explosion that may have meant the difference between war and peace for the United States on Dec. 7, 1941, is shown in the photo above. It pictures what is believed to have been the first bomb dropped by the Japs on Pearl Harbor. A Jap plane, circled, can be seen pulling out of a dive above American warships. Photo was found torn to pieces by Martin J. Slemanski of Plymouth, Pa., photographer's mate, second class, at Yokosuka Naval Base near Tokyo. He copied picture with Japanese camera on Jap photographic plates, turned original over to Naval Intelligence.

THE AFTERMATH OF LONDON

The gloomy fiasco of the Council of Foreign Ministers in London has presented two facts which are clearly visible even at a great distance and through a veil of secrecy; there must be a new attempt to reach agreement on peace terms; and before that attempt can even approach success, the differences that split the London meeting must be resolved.

Whether the next attempt is another foreign ministers' conference, a Truman-Stalin-Attlee meeting, or a full-dress conference of the United Nations depends on the Big Three. But the form is less important than the need for a basic Big Three agreement.

Much has been made of the fact that Secretary Byrnes came to the recent unsuccessful meeting as an unprepared "amateur." But it is doubtful that an American delegation armed with the most meticulously prepared protocol would have fared much better. For Mr. Molotov presented a hard-headed program based on a political and diplomatic philosophy that is diametrically opposed to most Anglo-American beliefs.

It is clear that the Soviet Union does not believe in equal sovereignty: the Big Three won the World War and so must dictate the world peace, without allowing the small nations a voice in their own destiny.

The Russian government is responsible to no one but itself. It is not elected, and it does not countenance serious domestic criticism of its policies. This it obviously believes to be a good method, hence its insistence on a wall of secrecy around the fateful Big Three discussions.

The Russian interpretation of "democracy" is quite different from the Anglo-American conception. The first test of the new "democratic" governments of European countries within the Russian orbit has been their acceptability to Russia, not to their own people. Major opposition there has been lumped together as "fascist" and bloodlessly purged. Talk of "free elections" has remained talk.

All this does not necessarily mean that Russia is traveling a cynical road toward world domination. Quite possibly the Russian government, in its own eyes, is acting fairly, justly and democratically. The trouble is simply that Russian's whole course of action is repugnant to the western democracies. And those democracies, whatever their faults, have had a longer, more peaceful and more successful experience in government of, by and for the people.

And so there must inevitably be a showdown. Perhaps the United States needs better preparation before the next peace meeting. But certainly this government will need to exercise its strength and world prestige more vigorously.

We have three strong weapons in dollars, a great productive capacity and an atomic bomb. Russia wants some of the first, needs the help of the second and respects the third. Backed by these weapons, American statesmen should be able to effect the compromise necessary to turn world events from their present dangerous course and toward recovery and peace.

HIGHWAY FUNDS

For many years past it has been the policy of the Pennsylvania State Grange to insist that the revenue collected through a tax upon gasoline be used for highway purposes only, reminds the "Pennsylvania Grange News".

From time to time, as the financial going got a little tough, the gasoline tax fund has been raided and as a result thousands of miles of roads were never built because the money (more than $130,000,000) which the motorist and farmer had paid had been used for other purposes.

The General Assembly in 1943 and again in 1945 approved a constitutional amendment which would prohibit the use of this revenue for anything other than highway purposes. This amendment will be placed before the voters of the state at the next election, November 6th. It would seem probable that few citizens would vote against such an amendment but there is one fact about constitutional amendments that is often forgotten. That is, an amendment has to be approved by a majority of all the people who cast a ballot at the election. It is a well known fact that voters, generally, do not bother to vote on amendments. And failure to vote is the same as voting against the amendment.

A campaign is under way at the present time by the Pennsylvania Good Roads Association to insure that all voters are familiar with this amendment before election day.

Interesting Items Taken From The Warren Evening Times

In 1925 Emory Lesser, who left Warren some time ago to attend the Paramount school of movies at New York City, has completed his course and has been assigned to the Rivoli Theatre there.

The Geracimos Company has been extremely busy for several days paying off free drinks to 11 members of the Warren High football team who participated in the Ridgway game.

Several hundred Warren county ex-servicemen are eagerly awaiting the national defense badges which were authorized by Congress and are now being distributed.

Workmen have completed preliminary work for the complete redecoration of the North Warren Presbyterian church. The roof has been replaced.

In 1935 Father J. H. Diamond, rector of the St. Joseph's church, has been named chaplain in the State Association of Elks. The state meeting is being held in Williamsport.

Mrs. B. K. Crippen, Grand Valley, and Edith Frakes, 705 1/2 West Fourth avenue, have been awarded prizes as a result of winning first honors in the Metzger-Wright sewing contest.

The board of directors of Warren schools has accepted $96,000 as the local share of federal aid to be used in school improvements. A bond issue of $119,000 has been authorized as the Warren cost in improvements.

A total of 341 persons is attending the night school classes being held at the high school, according to Superintendent John G. Rossman. Classes are held nights each week.

Stamp News

A GROUP of smiling sailors are depicted on the Navy commemorative stamp to be issued at Annapolis, Md., Oct. 27 as the third in the series of U. S. stamps honoring the armed services. At least 11 faces are distinguishable on the stamp.

Collectors desiring first day cancellations may send a maximum of 10 addressed envelopes, together with remittance for the stamps to be affixed, to the Postmaster, Annapolis, Md. Meanwhile the Post Office Department has announced that a Coast Guard issue of the service series will be placed on sale Nov. 10, and that a Texas centennial issue is scheduled for August.

NYASALAND'S first set of pictorial stamps just released is in keeping with the customary attractiveness of British colonial issues. The 14-value set presents seven distinctive designs in two colors, each with a portrait of King George VI.

Nyasaland Protectorate, a British colony in Southern Africa, is 37,274 square miles in area and had a population of 1,686,045 in 1940.

Values, colors and designs of the new series are: 1/2-pence brown and black and 9-p olive and black, native in canoe on Lake Nyasa; 1-p green and black, a soldier of the King's African Rifles; 1 1/2-p gray and black and 6-p violet and black, a tea estate with the Manje Mountain in the background; 2-p vermilion and black, 1-shilling gray green and blue and 10-shilling green and red, map of Nyasaland and the colonial coat of arms; 3-p blue and black and 2-sh brown and black, a fisherman on Lake Nyasa; 4-p magenta and black and 2-sh 6-p dark blue and green, tobacco field; 5-sh mauve and dark blue and 1-pound vermilion and black, colonial coat of arms.

RUSSIA'S V-E Day was May 9, the day after the United States and Great Britain issued their proclamations, a historical date that is given philatelic recognition by issuance of an overprint on the Soviet's 3-ruble "Order of Victory" medal stamp. The overprint reads: "Victory Day May 9, 1945."

Speaking of medals, the Soviet Union didn't forget the home front in handing out medals. J. and H. Stolow of New York report receipt of three stamps picturing medals awarded to Russian mothers. A 20-kopek brown on light blue pictures a medal presented mothers who have borne 10 or more children, a 30-k brown on green depicts the Medal of Honor of the Mother and a 60-k red features a medal presented to the mother of a Soviet war hero.

The same firm reports that Russia also issued 30- and 60-k stamps Sept. 16 to commemorate the 20th anniversary of the birth of Field Marshal Michael I. Kutusoff (1745-1813). Kutusoff distinguished himself in the Turkish wars of 1770 and 1788-92. In 1812, as commander-in-chief of the Russian Army he was defeated by Napoleon at Borodino but he scored victories over French Field Marshals Ney and Davout at Smolensk.

STAMP news in brief: Spain is reported to be preparing a stamp issue honoring Father Benito Jeronimo Feijoo Montenegro (1676-1764), Benedictine monk and writer. . . John S. Sparks, Jr., stamp writer for the Fort Worth, Tex., Star-Telegram, wants the Post Office Department's philatelic agency to resume sales of all stamps now that the war is over and suggests transfer of "some of the surplus federal employees to the philatelic agency" to handle the extra work. . . Liechtenstein has issued a 5-franc stamp featuring its coat of arms against a background of Castle Vaduz and mountains. . . Albert F. Kunze of the Pan American Union's philatelic section has edited and illustrated booklet giving the story behind each of Panama's 16 current postage and air-mail stamps. . .

SURINAM, or Dutch Guiana, the South American colony of The Netherlands, issued a six-value set of stamps this summer, each stamp surcharged to provide funds for the Dutch National Aid Fund. A 7 1/2 plus 5-cent value pictures a sugar cane train and a profile of Queen Wilhelmina while the other values depict just the Queen's profile.

A COMMONPLACE BOOK

She is intelligent and not insensitive to the aesthetics of the written word. Unfortunately, as a member of the younger generation—strange how there seems always to be a Generation called "The Younger," whose personnel changes but whose characteristics do not—she has been nourished emotionally on the alarms and excursions of war. More delicate responses, if they ever existed at all, have been blunted by the crash of cities, the roar of rockets, the yellow telegrams from the War Department. Life is pretty rugged, says the philosophy of this Younger Generation; so—"Carpe diem!" I don't quarrel with that philosophy; but it does not make for appreciation of the more fragile lyricisms. So, I say, it was not without misgiving that I shoved a poem under her nose. Here is the poem:

You thought it was a falling leaf we heard;
I knew it was the summer's gypsy feet;
A sound so soft it scarcely stirred—
The car so still a message to repeat—
"I go, and lo, I make my going sweet,"
What wonder you should miss so soft a word?
You thought it was a falling leaf we heard.
I knew it was the summer's gypsy feet.
With slender torches for her service meet
The goldenrod is coming; softer slurred
Midsummer noises take a note repeat
With hint of change; who told the mocking bird?
I knew it was the summer's gypsy feet—
You thought it was a falling leaf we heard.

My misgivings were justified. Her comment, in the bright, all-alert accents considered indispensable in anyone who is really on the beam, was: "Very nice. . . I like it. . . Very nice!" I said my breath, thinking she was going to add "It's sharp!" I Really smooth!" But I was spared that, at least. Her comment proved she had not grasped at all the soft, subtle beauty of this famous poem by Karl Wilson Baker. She damned it with faint praise. Such a poem is never merely "nice." It is deeply, stirring lovely. This delicate rondel remains, and will remain, a permanent melody in the remembering ear of those who love poetry in its softest, most luminous moods. (Speaking of the present Younger Generation, I must note, in fairness, that I have recently discovered one memorable exception to its insensitive-ness; so perhaps all is not lost.)

To get back to autumn poetry, one always remembers at this time of year Bliss Carman's "A Vagabond Song." It is certainly not so subtle in its beauty as the rondel; but it has motion, cadence, and a certain debonair, if superficial, romanticism:

There is something in the Autumn that is native to my blood—
Touch of manner, hint of mood;
And my heart is like a rime,
With the yellow and the purple and the crimson keeping time.
The scarlet of the maples can shake me like the cry
Of bugles going by.
And my lonely spirit thrills
To see the frosty asters like smoke upon the hills.

There is something in October sets the gypsy blood astir.
We must rise and follow her
When com' the hill of flame
She calls and calls each vagabond by name.

We are not quite so naive as we were in the days when Bliss Carman wrote "A Vagabond Song." It is not very romantic to be vagabonds when a roaring plane can whisk you around the world in a few days. Nor do we prize our "lonely hearts" or our "gypsy blood" even though we may have them. This poem is so fragrant with the emotions of another time; but still it is fragrant.

Many Victory Garden Crops Easily Stored for Winter

Easy Methods of Storing Vegetables.

As freezing weather approaches, vegetables which remain in good condition in the Victory garden may easily be stored safely for winter use. Kale, Brussels sprouts, parsnips and salsify will stand freezing, and are usually left in the garden and harvested as needed until just before the ground freezes deeply.

If parsnips and salsify are dug at this stage, washed and enough for one meal packed in a paper bag, the bags can be stored outdoors in any convenient place where they will remain dry and safe from animals. They can be taken into the kitchen and thawed out for use as needed.

Tomatoes should be harvested after the first hard frost. Many can be ripened if laid on a shelf in a warm basement; some prefer to hang them up, still attached to the vine. Carrots, beets, turnips, rutabagas, potatoes, apples and cabbages can be stored in an unheated garage or shed for several weeks, until the outside temperatures have fallen to over 40 degrees below freezing. If the carrots, beets and turnips are placed in boxes packed in soil, which is kept moist, in the protection of the garage or shed they will keep well in any except extremely low temperatures. Sand is not good for this purpose, as it does not retain moisture well. Potatoes should not be packed in this way.

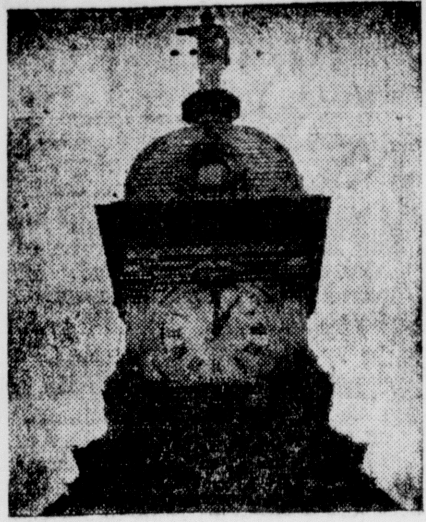

A better method is a cold cellar, or basement room, in which the temperature can be kept down to as near 34 to 38 degrees as possible, and ventilation provided. In such a room, the vegetables should be stored in shelves, racks, flat bins or solid boxes, raised off the floor. A concrete floor should be sprinkled every few days, and an earth floor kept somewhat damp.

Where the quantity to be stored does not warrant a large pit, various adaptations of the idea may be used, as shown in the illustration.

Vegetables stored should be in good condition, not too old or too immature; and tender vegetables which have been exposed to frost should never be stored. Avoid vegetables with bruises or skin punctures, as decay will start from these, and never store vegetables which are wet. Even the hardest vegetables should not be stored if they are frozen.

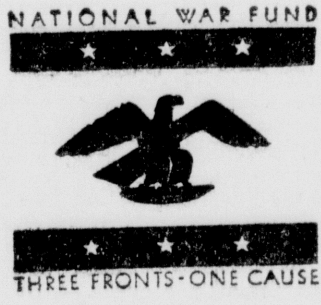

Do not close outdoor root cellars tightly until the temperature inside has dropped close to freezing, and do not cover vegetables in earth pits until the soil has cooled off thoroughly.

Your Money at Work at Home

Of the $88,700 total goal for the 1945 Warren County War Fund, $49,700 remains at home to be used in the work of the 8 local agencies—work both in Warren Borough, and in the County outside the Borough. No money collected outside the Borough in the County is used for work inside the Borough; all of it goes for exclusively County purposes.

Y. M. C. A.

The sounds of running feet and a dribbling basketball, spirited yells and laughter amidst splashing water, the click of a ping pong ball as it bounces from the game table; an atmosphere of warmth, friendliness and relaxation; a spirit of Americanism—that's the YMCA!

The Young Men's Christian Association has become a prevalent factor in training both mind and body of American youth. Leisure time, always a problem for many a boy, has found a synonym—the "Y". Despite the fact that 200 members were in uniform, last year the Warren County "Y" membership increased by 100, bringing the total membership to 874, including 404 boys.

During the past year the Warren County "Y" has been a foster home to our men in uniform. The shower room was probably the most frequently occupied, but the swimming pool, game room, exercise rooms and reading rooms were rarely vacant. Many servicemen temporarily "out of funds" were given lodging without cost. The number serviced in one day has ranged from one to twenty-five, and the fact to be remembered is that these services do not end with the war.

For another year, at least, increasing numbers of men in uniform will look to the "Y" for a variety of services. Any discharged servicemen who wishes it will be granted a free, 3-month, full-privilege membership. Many men have already taken advantage of this opportunity. A woman's swimming membership for the same period of time is offered discharges of the women's branches of the armed forces.

Last year 695 men and boys were enrolled in 27 different gym classes, in addition to the City Basketball league, volleyball league, tumbling classes, a gym show and Leaders Corps classes. Gym attendance for the entire year was 10,596. Swimming participation totaled 11,250, including the tri-weekly Red Cross swimming classes, Thursday night mixed swim period and the pre-induction classes for high school boys, in which 107 students participated. Not only the regular "Y" groups but also the Boy and Girl Scouts, the Public Schools, the Y. W. C. A., churches and the State Police found much pleasure in the use of the pool.

Besides the Senior Hi-Y Club, two Junior Hi-Y clubs and the Gra-Y Club, 31 different organizations and groups used the "Y" building during the year for a total of 293 meetings, classes and events. The Y. M. C. A. has maintained a participating relationship, and in some instances a position of leadership, in such community enterprises as the Ministerial Association, the Council of Community Agencies, the Christian Youth Council, the Christian Church, the War Fund, and the Week-Day School of Religious Education.

The Community Adult Bible Class, sponsored by the "Y", held 16 Thursday night sessions, beginning February 1. One hundred and eighty-seven men and women attended. Three lenten Bible-study, supper meetings for boys were conducted with an average attendance of 36. The membership of the Warren Foreman's Club, also organized by the "Y", grew to a record-breaking total of 110. Twenty industries and businesses were represented, with average attendance at the monthly fall and winter meetings being 90. Once a month the "Y" called a pre-induction "G. I.'s-to-be" took advantage of this opportunity to receive instruction for draft selectees, and 50 per cent of Warren County's valuable aid for their military service.

During the summer months, overnight hikes, soft ball games, educational trips, track meets, swimming and tennis were highlights of the season. Two 3-day camps at Jeffers were conducted with 24 boys and leaders participating each time. A Church Softball League was organized by the "Y" which consisted of six different teams.

The Y. M. C. A. Dormitories, with beds for 22 men, have been filled almost continuously during the year, providing young men with a temporary home away from home. The "Y" Dorm is provided not just as a place to "rent rooms," but as a facility used to further the ideals of American manhood in sports, friendships, and clean living.

Yes, the "Y" is, in a very real sense, a community center. For the coming year every Y. M. C. A. in the country realizes its most important task will be to help discharged servicemen adjust themselves to civilian life, to assist the rebuilding of war-weary minds and bodies with exercise, entertainment and kindness, to show them that the American way of life for which they gave so much is not a myth, but very, very real.

The "Y" is doing, and will do, its share. We must do ours by contributing to the Warren County War Fund.

Men and Women In the Service

Pfc Graham Is Awarded Bronze Star

Mrs. H. R. Graham, 27 Plum street, has received from headquarters of the 45th Infantry Division the following copy of the citation which accompanied the Bronze Star Medal awarded her son, Pfc. Rex C. Graham, for meritorious service in combat in the European theatre:

"Rex C. Graham, Infantry, Private First Class, Company D, 157th Infantry Regiment, for meritorious service in combat from October 1943 to 8 May 1945 in Italy, France and Germany. During this period Private Graham has consistently displayed determination and devotion to duty in his duties as messenger, ammunition bearer and mortar gunner. On one occasion, when enemy automatic weapons and tank fire prevented his driving an ammunition vehicle to his mortar position, Private Graham voluntarily hand-carried the vitally-needed ammunition across the fire swept area. His courage and initiative on this and other occasions have been of material assistance to his organization."

ARTHUR WHITNEY GOING TO KOREA

William M. Whitney, 6 Bauer street, has received a letter from his son, Arthur, reporting that he has arrived at Okinawa, and is awaiting transportation to Korea. Upon arriving in Korea, he will be with the 7th Infantry Division, a unit of an occupational army. Lt. Whitney served for nine months in the European theatre with a quartermaster supply company, then entered officer training school and received his commission in June. He left France in July, sailing through the Mediterranean, across the Atlantic, through the Panama Canal, and over to Pearl Harbor. After leaving Pearl Harbor, he made stops at Eniwetok, Saipan, Guam, the northwestern Carolines, and Okinawa.

ON USS PASIG

A delayed dispatch from the USS Pasig at Pearl Harbor states that "Robert G. Keller, fireman first class, husband of Dorothy L. Keller, Warren RD 3, was serving at war's end aboard this dwelling ship, whose crew is known throughout the western Pacific as 'the water boys'. Assigned to provide other fleet with fresh water, the Pasig has her busiest day at Okinawa. That day her output topped half a million gallons."

ROBERT A. LEE HAS HONORABLE DISCHARGE

S/Sgt. Robert A. Lee, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eric Lee, 119 Dartmouth street, was honorably discharged October 2 from the Army Air Forces, his last duty station being Lowry Field, Colo. He entered the service on July 9, 1941, and spent two years and six months overseas, serving as photographer with the 10th Air Force in the China-Burma-India theatre. He returned to the United States on December 8, 1944.

WILLIAM ANDERSON REMINDED OF HOME

Cpl. William A. Anderson, writing from Luzon in the Philippines, sends a copy of the Sept. 17th issue of the "Daily Pacific", army newspaper, in which he found an article datelined Warren, Penna. "Tis a small world," he writes. "It sure looked good to see the name of the old home town in newspaper print."

IN TOKYO BAY

Word comes from Tokyo Bay that Norman G. Yeagle, Corp., Clarendon RD 1, is serving on the USS Mount Olympus, communication headquarters ship, which was among the first U. S. Navy vessels to enter Tokyo Bay. The Mount Olympus, flagship of Vice Admiral T. S. Wilkinson, arrived at dawn of the day the Japs surrendered.

LLOYD LEROY IRWIN HONORABLY DISCHARGED

Lloyd Leroy Irwin, Sugar Grove RD 3, has been honorably discharged from naval service at the Bainbridge, Md., separation center.

Howard Lindell, seaman first class, is home from Milton, Fla., to spend a leave with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Lindell, Lander.

CAPTAIN WEBSTER HONORABLY DISCHARGED

Captain Hamilton Webster, husband of Louise Steber Webster, 214 West Fifth avenue, has received an honorable discharge from the army after 58 months of service in the Army Air Forces. Capt. Webster entered the service in November, 1940. While serving in the Air Force he piloted both fighter ships and bombers for four years, accumulating a total of 2600 hours of flying time, and earning a total of 58 points. Before entering the service, he was employed by the National Cash Register Company in Jacksonville, Fla. He was last stationed at Langley Field, Va. AAF Training Command radar observatory school. He will return to Dayton, O., soon to take up a position as executive secretary of the Dayton Veterans Service Center. Capt. Webster will remain here with her parents for a week or ten days and will join him in Dayton, where they will reside at 576 Dayton Parkway.

IVAN ZIMMERMAN RETURNING SOON

It has been learned that T/Sgt. Ivan E. Zimmerman, 114 Canton street, has cleared the Grenier Field, N. H., Air Forces separation center, and will shortly return home with an honorable discharge. Sgt. Zimmerman, son of Mrs. H. A. Zimmerman, has served a little more than three years with the AAF as a radar bombsight mechanic. Sixteen months of this time he was overseas in the European theatre. He wears the Bronze Star Medal, the Distinguished Unit Citation badge with three Oak Leaf Clusters, and the ETO ribbon with nine battle stars. He participated in the campaigns of southern France, Rome-Arno, Po Valley, Europe Air Offensive, Normandy, northern France, Germany, North Apennines and the Balkans. Upon returning to civilian life, Sgt. Zimmerman plans to do electronics work.

SERVES IN QM RAILROAD COMPANY

Pfc. Frank C. Germonto, with the 4300th Quartermaster Railroad Company, now at Camp Swift, Texas, is in town to spend a 15-day furlough with Mr. and Mrs. Frank Chimenti, 701 Pennsylvania avenue, east. He reports that while overseas he met one of the Corbran boys, also John Dahler. His outfit, under Capt. James S. Chapman, of Memphis, Tenn., was activated at Cherbourg in November, 1944, and during the battle of the Ruhr worked 24 hours a day receiving rations, breaking them down and distributing them to other units. Some days, he states, it distributed food for as many as eight different types of menus. Days when the units supplied food for 160,000 of our own men and 100,000 German prisoners of war were not unusual.

NORMAN H. SAMPSON HONORABLY DISCHARGED

Mr. and Mrs. Norman H. Sampson and their son Dennis, of Port Allegany, are here to spend a week with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Sampson, 11 Monroe street, following his honorable discharge from the army. Mr. Sampson was a staff sergeant in the army, serving four years and participating in overseas duty for 15 months. He was with the 802nd Field Artillery Battalion, the 87th Armored Field Artillery Battalion and the 254th Infantry Regiment. He earned the Good Conduct Medal, American Defense Medal, the ETO ribbon with four battle stars, the Purple Heart, Presidential Unit Citation and the Bronze Star Medal.

ROBERT J. SMITH HONORABLY DISCHARGED

Robert J. Smith, machinist's mate second class, Kinzua, has been honorably discharged under the point system from Coast Guard Separation Center No. 9 in Detroit, Mich.

TERMINAL LEAVE

2nd Lt. George H. Phillips, son of Mrs. Olive Phillips, Schanz street, home on terminal leave from his instructors' duties at Ellington Field, has resumed his employment at the Munksgard Garage on Crescent street and expects his final discharge papers soon.

HAROLD SEYMOUR HONORABLY DISCHARGED

Harold Seymour, staff sergeant in the army and son of Mr. and Mrs. Alva Seymour, 127 Russell street, has been honorably discharged from service at Fort Og-

Freedom from what?

PEACE is five months old in Europe now. Freedom has been established.

But thousands still don't know freedom from hunger, and the way it pinches the eyes and eats at a man's spirit.

Numberless men, women and children haven't found freedom from disease. Each night sees hundreds die.

Thousands of people can't find freedom from cold. Soon winter will search them out in the cellars of their ruined homes, or in their unheated bedrooms, or in the shacks they put together.

But the greatest lack of freedom is from fear—from fear of the future. Legions of men and women fear the despair that fills their lives. The hopelessness that smothers their will to try.

These are the fears from which violence grows. The desperate fears that lead to anarchy. To uprisings. To chaos that can threaten the peace of the world. And it is vital to our future—and to our children's—that we dispel these fears.

You help bring freedom to these beaten peoples of Europe, and help them to rebuild for peace, when you give to the National War Fund—through your local community campaign.

Part of every dollar you give buys them freedom from hunger, by shipping seeds and food overseas. Freedom from disease, by sending medicines. Freedom from cold, by distributing clothes.

But the biggest thing your money buys for these peoples is freedom from despair. New hope to go on. Faith to believe again in mankind.

Your dollar goes even further. It sends U.S.O. entertainment to servicemen everywhere, and frees their families here at home from worry by providing foster parents for the children of war-disrupted homes.

When a neighbor from your local community war fund rings at your door, help him make freedom ring around the world. Give generously, won't you? Your dollars never bought so much.

Give generously to

Indiantown Soon to Cease Its Activities

The installation that was the first stopping place for Pennsylvanians on their way to the battlefields of World War II is closing. Orders from the Third Service Command headquarters of Baltimore on Friday called for the transfer of the reception center activity of the 1322nd Service Command Unit.

The move is in line with recent developments setting the stage for the big job of the moment, separation. Expansion of the separation center at Indiantown Gap has been so rapid in recent weeks that buildings of the reception center have already been commandeered to house separation functions.

Date set for transfer of the separation center is October 15, just two days more than 56 months since its activation at nearby New Cumberland.

Also scheduled to leave the Indiantown Gap scene, further making room for rapidly expanding separation activities, is the Special Training Unit, scheduled to depart for Fort Devens, Mass., by October 15.

The Curious Clue
BY RUFUS HEED

Chapter 24
When a person kills, that person kills again to protect himself. A truism in police annals, Gardner emphasized his words with a slow, deliberate motion of his fingers as he polished his spectacles. He was sitting in Cobo's office late that afternoon for what, to his surprise, Cobo had termed a "final interview."

Gardner noticed the tired, worried expression around the little chief's eyes. Cobo had worked day and night since Potter's body had been found. Gardner knew that and he also knew that this evening Cobo meant to break the case.

"You work with me today—tonight?" Cobo's voice was somber.

Gardner nodded. "But of course. I agree with you we must gather up the loose ends and work fast. If the killer makes a break to get away, this time we'd be ditched. Any one else coming in for a final report this afternoon?"

"Ramon. He knows so much about Dolores—we need that information."

"I know."

Cobo rang for a stenographer who came in at once and sat beside him, a row of sharpened pencils neatly lined up on the table in front of her. Then when he had told Jesus no one was to interrupt them except Ramon, who was expected soon, he turned to Gardner and said in a low voice:

"Yesterday you said 'when you get killer's time-table you break case.' Please make it now."

Gardner shoved his glasses up on his forehead, leaned back in his chair, and stared at the ceiling as he said slowly:

"Time is a big factor in this case. The thing which we must know is the time events actually happened—not the time some one wants you to believe they happened. For instance we were told that the principals and chorus for the pirates' dance went out on the verandah to start their dance at 10 o'clock Saturday night. Yesterday, in this office, Miss Van Tyne admitted that was an error—that the dance really started at 10 minutes past 10."

"Ten more minutes—plenty time to strangle Dolores."

"Exactly. Well, to get back to your question—the time-table we must reconstruct, accurately, is this:

"What time did Miss Van Tyne and Ramon Delgado meet Dolores as she came from the runway when the Fashion Show was over? What time did Miss Van Tyne leave her room Saturday night and get back to the lobby? What time did Peabody leave the lobby for Miss Van Tyne's room? When was Potter killed? When did Mrs. Warner see Potter after he went to answer that telephone call?"

"You get the idea," Gardner leaned forward and faced Cobo. "In a strange way time affects every one involved in this case. Incidentally, that time when Mrs. Warner saw Potter again is quite important. We know now that the telephone call was phony. He went to meet Dolores as she came out the side door of the hotel with Peabody's dossier hidden under her bridal bouquet—"

"And she did ask for more money—"

Cobo interrupted quickly. "I check on that. Potter said 'yes,' took dossier to his room, by way of beach back of high garden hedge, got money, went back to see Mrs. Warner. Away as short time as possible."

Gardner's eyes showed his keen interest in what Cobo was saying. "The," he supplemented quickly, "he left her again to give money to Dolores and either killed her, or found her dead. What time was that?"

"Before pirate dance began. Exact time unknown." The soft scratch of the stenographer's pencil across her notebook was the only sound in the office as Cobo finished his brief statement.

"THERE'S one other thing that stands out in this case," Gardner said abruptly as the silence in the office grew noticeable. "And that is the general absence of clues. But that is always true in a strangling case or, as it happened last night. The killer attempted to crack open Peabody's head with a blunt weapon he carried off with him. He didn't leave a single finger print behind him in the room."

"We have Miss Van Tyne's gun."

"Yes. Heaven knows I wish she'd never bought it! But the most important clue to my way of thinking is a corpse, Potter's. It's a dead body that will trap this killer—"

A shout made both men look up.

"Hi, fellows. Can the coroner of this city have a few words with the police department and the Federal Bureau of Investigation?" Ramon called out cheerfully from the doorway. "You two look emn enough to be at a wake. Quilhay, Cobo. Como te va."

He came across the office and accompanied his breezy salutation with a resounding whack on Cobo's back, which made the little chief flush with annoyance as he started up at him.

"Why don't you step on it and do something in this case?" Ramon continued flippantly. "Any one can get away with murder down here. A week's passed, nearly, and you haven't done a thing. Seems to me you're damn slow."

Cobo jumped to his feet, his face an angry red. "We know what we do. This evening I arrest murderer."

Ramon gave a start of surprise. "The hell you do!" he exclaimed. "That's more like it. If it's true. Not bad at all."

The dancer sat down on the end of the table and swung his legs carelessly back and forth as he considered Cobo's statement.

"If that's the case, chief, I guess I'll give you a hand."

"I called you for more facts about Dolores," Cobo returned stiffly. "You know her a long time."

"Oh, I'm going to do more for you than that," Ramon paused a moment to give full force to his next pronouncement. "You see, I know who killed Potter!"

DRAGONS LOSE TO DUBOIS; TIGERS LEAD SERIES, 3-2

Louie Bonace Sparks Locals In 28-7 Defeat By Powerful Beaver Crew; Jimtown Friday

Warren High's Dragon football team opened a new and spirited gridiron rivalry Friday night as the DuBois Beavers scored a 28-7 victory over the Lehigh Valley team in the first under-the-arc contest for the local title at DuBois' Beaver High Stadium before some 4,000 fans who never moved from their seats as a slight drizzle depended upon the field during almost the entire second half.

Although absorbing a 28-7 defeat, the Blue and White aspirants staged a brilliant battle all the way, raftering slightly in the final stanza as the powerful Beaver machine went air-minded to tally twice. The Beavers scored in the first period from the one-yard line and in the second on a pass before the Dragons moved into scoring position and Jimmy Scalise pulled his way over. At halftime, the Beavers held a 14-7 lead.

Friday's encounter definitely began a rivalry between the two schools which will probably reach its importance that Warren-Jamestown meetings have attained for many years. About 100 local fans followed the Dragons into the Jefferson county territory, and none went home dissatisfied.

Through the brilliant running and passing of junior Bert Federici, one of the last of a long line of brilliant gridiron stars under the name of Federici, the Beavers attempted to offset the Dragon hopes of a powerful air attack early in the game.

DuBois won the toss and Warren kicked off to Federici on his own 10, returning to his 28. On the first few plays, the Beavers started heaving aerials, but their effort failed and they were forced to resort to a fine ground attack. For the first seven minutes of the initial stanzas, the two eleven fought back and forth bitterly.

Neither team finding an opportunity to score, DuBois went to the line to start a drive. On the 15, left tackle Pittsley recovered a DuBois fumble. Louie Bonace, second blocked kick on the Warren 39. An incomplete pass and then two running plays gave the Beavers 11 yards and a first down on the Dragon 28. On a beautiful play, Federici passing to Selman who in turn lateraled to Mable on the 19, sent the Beaver back all the way to the one-yard line and Federici smashed around right end for the tally. The DuBois star then converted his first of four complete extra points to send the Beavers ahead, 7-0.

The Dragons went into scoring territory for the first time as the first quarter whistle sounded. Don White recovering a fumble on the DuBois 29. The threat soon ended, however, as Mable intercepted a pass on his own 11. Two consecutive first downs for the Beavers and a 15-yard heave from Federici to Selman put the Beavers on the Warren 45. Another first completed, Federici let loose with a pass from the 40 to Conrad on the 23, who raced down the left side of the field for the second DuBois score. Federici kicked the point, making it 14-0.

Quarterback Louie Bonace then started flipping passes again to set the stage for the lone Dragon score. A 20-yard pass to Hamilton put the locals on their opponents' 49, a second to Shanshala for a plunge and another pass sent the Warrenites to the DuBois 42. Bonace was then forced to kick, but got off a bad boot and DuBois took over on its own 42. Al McNally, seeing his first action since being injured some time ago, recovered Conley's fumble on the Beaver 32 to again give the locals a chance for a touchdown.

Bob Gerardi, playing his usual outstanding line game, nabbed a 24-yard pass from Bonace and went to the DuBois 8 for a first down and eight yards to go. Lopez picked up five on a plunge and Bonace went to the two-foot line of another plunge. Bulback Jim Scalise went over for the score and Bonace plunged for the point to put Warren definitely back in the ball game.

At halftime, DuBois was still in the lead, 14-7.

Louie Bonace was definitely the Dragon sparkplug, both on offense and defense. His runbacks, passing, and defense contributed greatly to the game and his interception of a Beaver pass on his own goal line midway in the third quarter prevented another score after the Beavers had gone to the Dragon 11 on a 32-yard pass from Federici to Conrad and to the five on plunges.

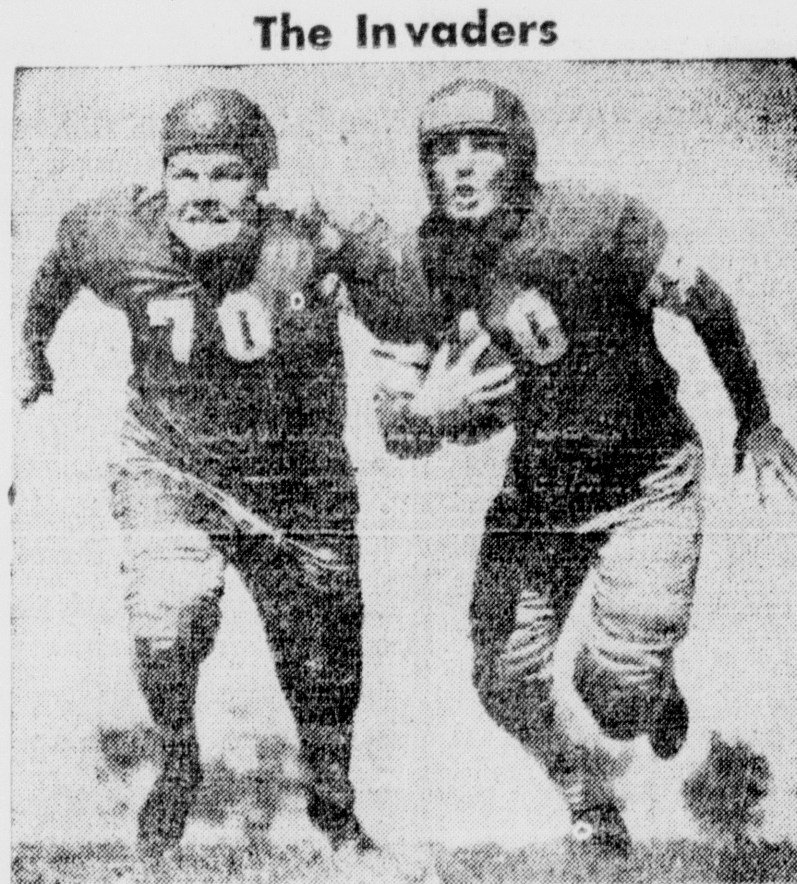

The Dragons kicked off to mid-field, but Federici returned the kick to the Warren 21. Conrad went to the 15 but lost fifteen yards on a penalty for clipping, but Krause made up the loss by streaking around his left end to the 15 as the quarter ended.

The fourth quarter proved to be fatal for the Dragons. Opening the quarter on the Warren 15, the Beavers went to the five where they were stopped by the aggressive Warren line for three downs before Selman scored on a pass from Federici and Federici converted to make it 21-7.

Bonace made one of the game's most outstanding runs when he took the Beaver kick on his own 15 and smashed all the way to the DuBois 45, a 37-yard return. The Dragons lost possession, however, on their own 43 when Lopez fumbled, and DuBois took over. Mable and Conley racked up 27 yards on end runs to put their mates in scoring position again on the Dragon 15. Marching on to the six, Conrad heaved a pass to Lundgren who scored. Federici made good on his fourth conversion as the victors increased their margin to 28-7.

With very few minutes remaining, the Dragons made one last scoring attempt. Bonace received the kick on his 17 and went to the 26, then heaved a pass to Scalise for nine yards. He then went through the center for a first down to put the Dragons on the Warren 37. Scalise added six on a plunge and then Bonace went for 17 yards on a spinner play, putting the ball on DuBois' 40. Three ground plays rang up another first on the 29. Ray Reed snagged a pass to move

Sheffield, Oct. 6.—(Special)—Sheffield High's Wolverines footballers met with their second deadlock in succession today at Smethport, battling the Smethport eleven to a 0-0 tie on a rain-soaked field that hindered playing conditions extensively.

Coach L. O. Eisenhauer's protégés remain the only undefeated crew in the county, holding wins over Youngsville and Ridgway, and tying with Kane and Smethport.

The only scoring threat of the entire contest was made in the final stanza when the Wolverines marched to Smethport's 15-yard stripe. The Warren countyites chalked up a first down to one for Smethport and gained a total of 77 yards rushing to their opponents' 51. Out of 11 aerials, Sheffield completed one and Smethport failed to succeed in eight tries.

Next Friday night, the Wolverines invade Corry for a night battle with the Ravens. The Corry battle is expected to be the high-lighting encounter of the season. Sheffield halting the Youngsville Eagles, 14-12, and Corry also defeating the Eagles, 7-0.

Behind the Lines

Four keystone state football eleven, Pennsylvania, Penn State and Franklin and Marshall are among the 13 still unbeaten teams in the east. F. & M.'s record, however, is tarnished with a 7-7 tie with Swarthmore. Penn barely managed to stay in this select class Saturday by toppling the Big Green of Dartmouth, 12-0, on a 32-yard pass with 15 seconds remaining in the first half and with an interception in the final quarter. Temple had little trouble in walloping NYU, 59-0, under the lights, and Penn State upset the Colgate's 27-7, but will probably topple from the rank when it tackles Navy at Annapolis next Saturday. Franklin and Marshall whooped it up over Muhlenberg, collecting a 30-0 victory.

Refresher courses in the field of trapping methods for foxes, weasels, minks, skunks, opossums, and other predatory animals are available, the State Game Commission announces. The courses are under the direction of Harold Plasterer, staff specialist on predator control, and Arthur Logue, Couder sport, district game protector. Also included in the course will be how to match wits with the much-sought muskrat. The program is designed to help control predatory animals and increase the harvest of valuable fur-bearing and insure

By SID FEDER
Chicago, Oct. 8.—(AP)—The sixth—and what could be the last—game of the Hank Greenberg baseball World Series comes off in Wrigley Field on the north side of town today.

This is going to be one of the richest fall classics of them all by the time they finish counting noses at 1:30 p. m. (EST), but forgetting sordid finance for the moment, the accent right now on these Greenberg gaieties is the possibility the Detroit Tigers might wind it up today, just because the big guy and his big bat are around.

They're going to go all out to do it, too, these Bengals, who've shown very little except an ability to produce hits and runs in one big spurge at any given moment.

The Tigers are sending out Virgil (Fire) Trucks, 4-1 winner of the second scramble, to pour in his blaze-ball in the hope he can pick up the whole pot today after the merry-go-round on which they grabbed the brass ring yesterday to go in front for the first time in the set.

Against him, the Chicago Cubs, trailing three games to two and desperate, are cutting Claude Passeau's vacation short after two days' rest in the hope the 36-year-old Mississippi tumbler, rather than keep them in the series with a reasonable facsimile of his all-time series mound masterpiece of Friday, when he let the Tigers down with one hit, one base on balls and no runs.

And, they'll also probably have to use an uncertain Len Merullo at shortstop in place of Roy Hughes, who was hit in the ankle with a batted ball during pre-game practice yesterday.

Summary:
Detroit 001 004 102 - 4 11 0
Chicago 001 000 201 - 4 7 2
Batteries—Newhouse and Richards; Borowy, Vandenberg, Chipman, Derringer, Erickson and Livingston.

Friday's Game
Chicago 000 200 100 - 3 8 0
Detroit 000 000 000 - 0 1 2
Batteries—Passeau and Livingston; Overmire, Benton and Swift Richards.

Saturday's Game
Detroit 000 040 000 - 4 7 1
Chicago 000 001 000 - 1 8 7

President Is Drafting Talk For TVA Visit

Carthage, Mo., Oct. 8—(P)—President Truman began drafting today a speech championing multiple purpose development of waterways by regional authorities as he brought another Missouri visit to a close.

His luggage was packed for a two-day sojourn in Tennessee where the Tennessee Valley authority, the new deal's vast public power development celebrates the completion of its original ten-dam chain Wednesday.

The president plans to go to Gilbertsville, Ky., Wednesday for a speech at 12 noon dedicating Kentucky dam, the last of the major TVA flood control-navigation-power dams harnessing the Tennessee river.

In the meantime, however, the president planned to spend much of his time today and tomorrow relaxing on historic Reel Foot lake, west Tennessee's paradise for fishermen.

He brought his southwest Missouri visit to a close yesterday afternoon at the Pemiscot country fair with a speech in which he asked the cooperation of all the American people in bringing crisis on the home production front and in the field of foreign affairs to a speedy solution.

To this task, he dedicated all the authority of his high office.

repeal of liberty-restricting laws are due by Oct. 15, when demobilization also is to be completed. Meanwhile there is the growing specter of famine; and frank skepticism of the press.

Demobilization of the last Japanese remaining under arms in the homeland now is only a matter of days, Allied headquarters announced today, noting that nearly 2,000,000 had laid down their arms by Oct. 1.

West Coast Man Suicides In Automobile

Albert P. Hobbs, a resident of Santa Barbara, Calif., who has been in Warren for some time in the employment of E. D. Wetmore, of North Warren, was found dead Saturday evening in his Plymouth coupe parked along the Beaver run road in Farmington township about three miles from Lander, County and state officials investigating the demise stated they found a garden hose attached to the exhaust pipe of the car with the other end leading through the trunk and opening into the back of the seat. Death was doubtless due to carbon monoxide gas from the exhaust.

Associates stated that Mr. Hobbs was last seen on Tuesday, when he was engaged in his usual chores. He had been despondent for some time it was said although he was not heard to threaten to take his own life.

Mr. Hobbs doubtless was well prepared for the rash act. The connection on the exhaust was well wrapped to avoid the possibility of the poisonous gas leaking before it entered the coupe. When found the body was sprawled across the seat. The doors were securely locked on the inside and it was necessary to break a window to unlock them. It was apparent he had been dead for several days.

Friends stated the Deluxe Plymouth coupe in which the act was committed was recently purchased by Mr. Hobbs in Corry. The tragedy was investigated by Coroner Ed Lowrey and P. A. A. Varr, of the local barracks of the state police, who had been notified of the suicide by residents of the vicinity who became suspicious after they had observed the car throughout the day and evening. Reports were sent in to Warren from two different sources before the officers arrived.

An element of mystery was injected into the case when it was discovered that the ignition was turned off on the car and it appeared there was plenty of gasoline in the tank. What prompted Mr. Hobbs to turn off the engine will never be known.

The body is at the Lutz funeral home and word is awaited from relatives on the coast as to what disposition is to be made of the remains. Little is known about survivors other than the fact that he is known to have a daughter about eleven years of age.

BEHIND THE LINES

A reader market for these products.

From the Williams Grove, Pa., raceway, scenes of the national speed races, comes word that one person died and 13 other persons were injured when a speeding racing car catapulted from the track during yesterday's time trials. Mark Light, Lebanon, Pa., driver of the car, is also hospitalized with a possible fractured back.

Our friend, Major Hoople emerged today congratulating himself on a fairly good prediction day Saturday. Out of 29 games predicted, the major made good on 22, losing out on the Warren-DuBois, Colgate-Penn State, Illinois-Indiana, Iowa State-Kansas, Tulane-Florida, S. M. U.-Missouri, and Washington-California prognostications.

Prospects of a semi-pro football league in this section, come 1946 appeared much better today after several queries had been flashed to some of the probable entries. The local Red Jackets are almost a certainty, while Jamestown is thinking seriously of entering. DuBois, boasting a new athletic association, is a newcomer which will undoubtedly signify a "yes" to the league's proposals. Bradford, Oil City, Franklin, Olean, and a number of others are showing interest in the proposal. Credit for the league suggestion, to form a

Episcopalians Are Stressing South American Efforts

Members of the Episcopal church are doing two things just now, according to information from the national headquarters of that denomination received by the Rev. Beecher M. Rutledge, rector of Trinity Memorial parish here. They are studying about the missionary work their church is engaged in, overseas and here at home, and already they are giving money for the rehabilitation of church property destroyed or damaged by war, and for extension of missionary work in all fields.

The church is seeking a minimum of five million dollars for these purposes, and church leaders believe there are many indications that the goal will be exceeded. The largest total reported so far is from the Diocese of Pennsylvania, which includes Philadelphia and surrounding counties. Episcopalians there are trying to raise $500,000 and already more than $400,000 in is sight.

The plan in use throughout the Episcopal Church is for all members, old and young, to study a different mission field each month. This month they will concentrate on Latin America. The idea is that if people are thoroughly informed about what is being done and what are the needs and opportunities, there will be no difficulty in securing their enthusiastic support.

Study material is supplied to parishes all over the country from national church headquarters. That used this month tells of Episcopal work in Cuba, Haiti, the Dominican Republic, Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands, Mexico, the Panama Zone and Brazil. It is explained that the aim of the Episcopal Church is to build up a strong native church in each of these missionary areas, to be staffed and eventually supported and governed by the native people. The work done is evangelistic, educational and medical. Illiteracy is a serious problem in every Latin American country; even in Puerto Rico, a part of the United States, where more than a third of the people cannot read or write. Ill health comes from lack of knowledge of hygiene and sanitation, and poverty which prevents proper food and clothing. The Episcopal missions in Latin America, in addition to preaching and teaching the Christian religion, are fighting the causes of illiteracy and ill health.

Latin American people are highly responsive to the appeal of the Episcopal church. Growth in ten years indicates advances of from thirteen to as high as ninety-nine per cent in number of communicants.

These are some of the facts that Episcopalians are studying this month, all over the country, in order that they may know what their church is doing, and why.

TO YOKOHAMA

T/4 Raymond Smith, of Hemlock street, has written home that he has been transferred from Leyte to Yokohama and is now at Gen. Eichelberger's headquarters, detailed to set up communications in Gen. MacArthur's headquarters. He also reports he is operating in the same building in which Gen. MacArthur has his office and has seen him on several occasions. In his letter he states that Yokohama is a "mess of rubble except in some areas, and the people have taken old tin and made themselves homes out of it right where their plants had been burned down from the bombings. His brother, Yeoman Second Class Frank, Jr., is also somewhere in Tokyo Bay, aboard a flagship.

The Curious Clue
BY RUFUS HEED

Chapter 25

IN A flash, Cobo's irritation vanished. He motioned to the stenographer to continue taking her notes, then he said to Ramon in a level, non-committal voice:

"Good! You just the man we look for. You talk now, please."

At that moment the telephone on Cobo's desk began to ring. The stenographer answered it and then handed the receiver to Cobo.

"For you, Chief."

Cobo listened in silence to the voice at the other end of the line. Then he said briefly:

"Yes, Dr. Waldo. Depend on me. I see it done. Muchas gracias."

"What did that medico want?"

Ramon asked curiously. "He's been as busy as a bird dog since I came back from Miami. I haven't seen him for a second and tomorrow morning I've got to hold an inquest. Didn't he send me a message?"

"He not say. Personal call for me. Now we listen to you tell us who killed Potter."

"Okay. Only I must tell it my way. You have to get a little of the background. It will take a few minutes. Do you mind?"

UNDERNEATH his casual air of debonair assurance, Gardner detected a slight nervousness in Ramon's manner as if, now that he had started, the story he was to tell was not an easy one for him to go through with. However, he started out promptly enough.

"Dolores and Suzy Van Tyne were both in love with me,"

Gardner looked at his spectacles skeptically. Conceit like this was exactly what he had expected from the dancer, but he made no comment as Ramon continued.

"When Suzy began to come to the studio every day, Dolores began to make trouble. Dolores was a hot-head, and I finally had to tell her to lay off Suzy, or I'd fire her. But she kept calling her objectionable names and getting in her hair, until the Friday morning before the Fashion Show. Then she went too far."

"That morning in the studio she walked over to Suzy and slapped her face. Never in her life had a thing like that happened to Suzy Van Tyne and I must say I respect her for the way she took it," Ramon chuckled. "She was good. She swung back and gave Dolores a clip that almost put her out. She took all the starch out of her and she started to cry."

"In a second, Suzy was desperately sorry. You could see that. Later she and Dolores went off by themselves and Dolores told me Suzy apologized and told her how badly she felt over the whole affair."

"It was then she offered to pay Dolores' fare to New York City if she would go right away. Dolores said she would, and Suzy gave her a check for $200. Dolores opened a bank account with it the same day."

Ramon lit a cigarette, gave it a few long drags, and continued with his story. "I only tell you this to show you that the two girls had reached the hair-pulling stage. Then Peabody came on the scene and things happened fast. Dolores was furiously jealous of me, but she saw a chance of getting more money from Suzy once she suspected that Peabody and Suzy were engaged. She evidently knew that long before I did."

There was a bitterness back of that remark which did not escape Gardner's keen ear.

"I knew nothing of the money Suzy had given Dolores until she met me in the garden while the Fashion Show was going on. She told me then. We were just coming back to the hotel entrance, on Suzy's wing of the building, when we met Dolores coming off the runway. She blew up when she saw us together."

"Suzy made a dash for the stairs and Dolores started running ahead of her up the stairs to Suzy's room, where she was dressing that evening."

"What did Dolores tell Miss Van Tyne?" Gardner asked suddenly.

"How in Hell should I know? But whatever it was, it must have been pretty hard for Suzy to take because—because—" for an instant the dancer's voice faltered, and he looked down at the cigarette which he was slowly crumbling into a small pile of tobacco and bits of paper, "because Dolores was dead within 10 or 12 minutes. She was dead when we all met in the lobby to go on with our dance."

No one spoke for a few seconds, and then Cobo said in a quiet voice, "So that's the way it was."

"Yes," Ramon answered slowly. "Suzy strangled her in a fury over what she had told her. Did you ever see Miss Van Tyne's hands? They are as strong as any man's. The whole horrible business was over in a couple of minutes. Dr. Blair said."

"You've certainly given a clear picture of the events leading up to the tragedy," Gardner pushed his chair back and started pacing slowly up and down the office at the far end of Cobo's desk. "Only thing I can't quite see is a girl of Suzy Van Tyne's background and breeding strangling any one. . . ."

"Say, brother. You don't know girls as I do! When girls fight, they pull hair and tear clothes. Dolores' wedding dress was torn down the back, where Suzy ripped it as they were fighting together. The clothes Dolores wore at the Fashion Show are here in Cobo's office. You can prove what I say. Don't take my word for it."

"I don't," Cobo murmured. "Proof is here. Torn dress proof of killer. Okay, proceed, please."

Gardner stopped his pacing beside Ramon's chair and stood looking down at him for a moment. Then he asked:

"What time would you say Dolores was killed?"

"It was 20 minutes to 10 when she met us coming from the garden. Five minutes later Suzy started after Dolores up the stairs to her bedroom. Suzy left her room and was in the lobby at three minutes to 10, so Dolores was killed about eight minutes to 10."

Gardner looked at Cobo, who nodded with an expressionless face.

"That's accurate and quite a help to us, Ramon, in the final clean up of the case. The exact time of Dolores' death is important. It is a point we weren't sure of until you gave us all the facts."

"Dolores' murder we know now. Tell us how Potter died. . . ."
